CHINESE TROOPS MUTINY; SLAUGHTER 200 MANCHUS

Hankow in Hands of the Rebels and Pekin Government is Sending Big Force to Put Down Revolt.

Peking, China, Oct. 12.—Between 5,000 and 6,000 Chinese troops in Hankow native city are reported to have mutinied this morning and killed from 200 to 300 Manchus. The rebels occupied Sui-Ting-Fu yesterday.

It is believed that the revolutionaries will attempt to destroy the railway and prevent the transportation into Hu-Peh province of the troops that were concentrated in Sze-Chuen last month.

An imperial edict issued today orders the minister of war, General Yen Tchang, to proceed to Hankow with two divisions of Peking troops, about 20,000 of whom probably will be Manchus.

The commander of the Chinese navy, Admiral Sah Chen Ping, is commended to assemble a fleet of warships in the Yang Tse Kiang river and join the land forces in an attack upon the rebels now in possession of Wu Chang, Hankow and Han Yang.

Cowardly Viceroy Cashiered.

The edict cashiers the viceroy at Wu Chang, who fled before the rebels, but at the same time orders him to return to his post and retrieve his reputation. He is threatened with severe punishment if he fails to recapture Wu Chang.

It is expected that the revolutionists will dynamite the bridges of the Peking and Hankow railroad to prevent the earlier arrival of troops. Extraordinary precautions are being enforced here.

A telegram from Hankow states that at the most four batallions remain loyal. It is known that three Wu Chenh regiments of infantry and one regiment of artillery revolted. The American gunboat Helena and the Japanese cruiser Tsushima, were expected at Hankow today. Severy British warships have been ordered to proceed thither. The women and children living on the easter front slept aboard the merchant steamers in the harbor last night. According to Chinese rumors Kang Yu Wei, who was advisor to the late emperor until 1898, when the coup of the dowager empress restored her regency and drove the emperor's adviser into exile, has ar-

DEATH CLAIMS FORT WAYNE MAN WITH UNUSUAL CAREER

James McKeon, Near 93 Years Old, Had Heard Webster, Clay, Calhoun, and Knew New York in Early Days

Near ninety-three years of age and at the close of a career of unusual activity and of interesting experience, James McKeon died shortly before noon today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Samuel Grable, 519 West Wayne street.

The end had been expected for some time, for day by day the waning physical powers of the aged man were apparent to friends who have ministered tenderly to him, and he sank quietly into the sleep that marks the end of earthly activities. Mr. McKeon had been a resident of Fort Wayne for many years and was widely known and universally esteemed. He was a retired railroad shopman, a member of the Cathedral congregation, the Married Men's sodality of that church and of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

Recalled Days Long Since Gone.

Possessing a remarkable memory, Mr. McKeon was able to recall down to the very sunset of his life many of the incidents that served to make his long career an exceptional one. He heard Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, John C. Calhoun and other contemporary American statesmen in the very zenith of their leadership and power. He listened to the marvelous voice of Jenny Lind as she charmed a new world in her first tour of America years ago.

He lived in New York city before the days of Castle Garden, when the metropolis was not even dreaming of its present greatness, and when the northern section of the present Broadway, leading off toward Harlem, was known as Bloomingdale road.

Came to America in 1836.

Mr. McKeon is a native of Ireland, born in Boliver, County Meath, March 12, 1819, and came with his parents, four brothers and three sisters to America in May, 1836, as a lad of 17 years. The trip across the Atlantic was made in the sailing vessel Silas Richards, and thirty-one days were consumed in crossing the ocean. It was the last trip of the Silas Richards as a passenger boat, and Mr. McKeon used to recall that it at once put off on a whaling trip, and was never heard from afterward.

The McKeons landed at the foot of James street on East river; there was then no dock on North river and no

STATE IS DETERMINED TO BRING STURGEON TO TRIAL

Checkmates His Attempt to Have a Hearing Before City Court Jury and Takes Appeal.

Determined that J. Rufus Sturgeon shall not escape a speedy trial of the cases against him by any of the technicalities employed to good advantage heretofore in similar instances, the affidavit charging him with selling liquor without a license was dismissed in the city court this morning after a jury had been demanded to try the case.

While Deputy Prosecutor S. A. Callahan was watching for developments in the city court he was also keeping in touch with Deputy Prosecutor Harry Hilgemann and as soon as a jury was demanded, and it was indicated that the same procedure that has been adopted before would be called to the aid of the offending saloon man, warrants were obtained on affidavits filed in the circuit court and they were served by Deputy Sheriff Joe Kirk.

This was the deputy's debut, as his duties are confined to the courtroom and he had never been called upon before to make an arrest. He took his prisoner to the sheriff's office where bonds of $100 each were supplied on charges of selling liquor without a license and selling liquor on Sunday.

William Kolber and John Moore, who are said to have bought whisky from Sturgeon at his residence on Sunday afternoon, were taken along to the circuit court and steps taken to insure that they can be found when they are wanted.

Police officers are certain that they have good cases against Sturgeon. He has been in the city court before and there are appealed cases now standing against him. Had a jury convicted him he still had the avenue of appeal open but when Judge O'Rourke passes on the cases his finding will be final unless there is an appeal on a question of law.

From the prosecutor's office word was sent out that an effort will be made to get a hearing in the circuit court just as soon as it can be arranged. There is still open a change of venue but the state has the matter in better shape to handle it speedily.

BAPTIST INDICTS MODERN COLLEGE

TALKS AT BLUFFTON

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 12.—In an address before the Indiana Baptist convention Rev. E. A. Hanley, the new president of Franklin college, last night indicted modern college education on the following charges:

It often fails to teach the underlying principles of religion and to make the students acquainted with the personality of Jesus Christ.

The moral idea of the student body is often cheap and unworthy.

It is wanting in the spirit of reverence.

Semi-professional athletes receive more attention than Christianity and the highest paid professors are in the departments of literature, philosophy and science, not in biblical instruction, said Dr. Hanley.

Smoking, gambling and occasional drinking among many college students, he added, revealed a cheap moral status and did not destine students to be leaders among men as they should be.

He pleaded for supremacy of moral education rather than intellectual.

DEEP SNOW AT ANACONDA.

FOND DU LAC WILL HAVE PRESIDENT

War Over Taft's Coming is Ended by Agreement as to Visit.

STORMY FOR AWHILE

Salem, Ore., Oct. 12.—The Fond Du Lac incident, the most interesting connected with the recent travels of a president, was officially declared closed on board the Taft special when it stopped for several hours today on the way to Sacramento and San Francisco. And President Taft is looking forward to his visit to Fond Du Lac, in the insurgent state of Wisconsin, with an interest greater than that felt in any other city on his 13,000 mile itinerary.

The indications are that there will be a big time in Fond Du Lac on Taft day, Oct. 26. For a while it looked as though the gates of the city were to be closed against the chief executive of the nation, all because they thought it was Oshkosh, when it really was Appleton that wanted to be treated a little more liberally in the division of the president's time on a busy October day in the home state of Senator LaFollette, a rival candidate for the republican nomination in 1912.

Caused a Storm in Fond Du Lac.

In order to give Appleton a little more equitable treatment it was necessary to cut down some of the time allotted to Fond Du Lac. This caused the storm clouds to lower and when the tempest raged the telegraph wires were kept hot with messages which chased the presidential train all the way from Cheyenne to the Pacific coast. The mayor of Fond Du Lac announced that if Fond Du Lac could not have Mr. Taft for two hours and a half they did not want him at all. The announcement had been made from Fond Du Lac several days ago that the city had withdrawn its invitation to the president and would refuse to entertain him, the entire official correspondence—by telegraph—was given out here to make the situation entirely clear.

Record of the Case.

It begins with the following telegram, sent by Mayor Frank J. Wolff, of Fond Du Lac, to Secretary Hilles on the presidential train at Cheyenne:

"We have made elaborate arrangements for the president's visit to Fond Du Lac. We are advised that our time is to be divided with Oshkosh and other points in the Fox River valley. We

SALOON MAN SAYS SOLONS SLIPPED UP ON AMENDMENT

Beleives Discovery Day is Not a Legal Holiday and Opens His Place of Business—Law in Doubt.

On the ground that the act of 1911, which purported to make Discovery Day a legal holiday is void on account of a slip by the Indiana solons when they passed it, William H. Knapp, proprietor of the Baltes hotel, had the damp goods department of his hostelry in full blast at opening time this morning.

Acting under orders from Chief of Police Dayton F. Abbott, Patrolman Charles Spillner ran a personally conducted tour from said Baltes hotel to police headquarters with Mr. Knapp as his sole passenger and there Attorney Elmer Leonard affixed his signature to a blank bond to become active in event an affidavit is filed against the man who dared.

Other saloon keepers in the city were still scratching their heads at noon and wondering whether it was best to play safe and keep their doors locked and their curtains drawn or to take a chance on the judicial disposition of the matter.

Knapp acted on the advice of Attorneys Elmer Leonard and John W. Eggemann, who assured him that the law of 1911 is not valid and as his place of business presented during the morning hours the oul yoasis in all the length and breadth of Fort Wayne he did a very profitable business.

What the Prosecutor Says.

Prosecutor Albert E. Thomas said: "Of course an affidavit will be filed against Mr. Knapp and against any others who may open their saloons for the reason that the police are acting under orders from their chief and he is being governed by the act that makes Discovery Day a legal holiday.

"The question of whether or not the legislature made a mistake is purely judicial and is up to the judge to whom it is submitted to decide. I shall present cases that come to my office but

WASLH MAY NOT REGAIN LIBERTY

Indications Are the Pardon Board Did Not Favor His Release.

INDIANA MEN PASS

Leavenworth, Kan., Oct. 12.—In the first list of paroles granted by the board of paroles at its last meeting the name of John R. Walsh, the Chicago banker, does not appear. Either ten or eleven men at least, two of whom were bankers, have been ordered released, it is understood.

Walsh's hearing came before some of the men who are to be paroled, it is understood. As the cases were taken up numerically by the board this is thought to be an unfavorable sign for Walsh.

It is possible, of course, for the board still to pass on Walsh's case, but the fact that it has been passed over once without favorable recommendation makes the outlook more discouraging for the former banker and his friends.

Indiana Men Will Get Out.

The bankers who are to be paroled are said to be from Indiana. Five Indiana bankers, Max P. Emrich and C. Prinsler, of Indianapolis; E. N. Detzer, of Fort Wayne; J. H. Phillips, of Terre Haute, and F. M. Nicolai, of Auburn, all five year men, made application for parole at the last meeting.

All of these men are said to have been model prisoners and their chances were thought by many to be favorable.

All these prisoners pleaded guilty on the same day, Nov. 28, 1909, and were sentenced by Judge Anderson a few days later. They came to the prison in a body.

It is improbable than any of the men will be released before tomorrow or Saturday. It is necessary for their parole papers to arrive here and "first friends" to vouch for them before they can leave the penitentiary. The Indiana bankers all were influential men and strong influence was brought about to obtain their releases.

TWO FRENCH BIRDMEN FALL.

Aviators Horta and Level Believed Fatally Hurt.

Charleville, France, Oct. 12.—M. Horta, a student of aviation, while practicing at a height of thirty feet today, fell, receiving internal injuries which it is expected will cause his death. His machine capsized.

Rheims, France, Oct. 12.—Aviator Level was injured probably fatally in a fall today. He was sweeping along in his biplane about 250 feet from the earth in superb weather when something went wrong with his machine and the aeroplane plunged earthward, striking a telegraph pole in its descent. Level was senseless and barely living as he was taken from the wreck. It was found that the skull and spine had been fractured.

Plan Already Endorsed by Two of the Local Lodges.

MEETING IS CALLED

Fort Wayne Odd Fellows embraced within the membership of the three local lodges of that fraternity are preparing to organize a social club which shall limit its membership to the brethren of the three links, and which will open handsomely equipped club rooms for the enjoyment of its members.

Fort Wayne lodge No. 14 and Concordia lodge No. 228, the German lodge of Odd Fellows in this city, have already given warm approval to the proposition, and it is expected that Harmony lodge No. 19 will take similar action at its meeting this evening.

Formal organization of the club is expected to occur at a meeting called for next Sunday afternoon at the rooms of Fort Wayne lodge, Wayne and Calhoun streets. The present proposal is to equip the third floor of the Odd Fellows building, formerly occupied by the Commercial club, as club rooms for the new organization. There will be reading rooms, card tables and other accessories, including a kitchen from which luncheons and banquets can be served.

SALOON MAN SAYS SALOONS SLIPPED UP

I do not care to express an opinion on the law."

In 1905 the general assembly passed an act designating Sunday, New Years Day, the Fourt of July, Washington's Birthday, Christmas, any day appointed or recommended by the president of the United States or the governor of Indiana as a day of public fasting or Thanksgiving, Decoration Day and Labor Day as legal holidays.

In 1907 a law was enacted which is a copy of that of two years before with the exception that it included Lincoln's birthday. When the legislature met this year an amendment was enacted that was designed to make Discovery Day a legal holiday.

Where the Contention Is.

The last act amends the one passed in 1905. The contention is that when the act of 1907 was passed it became the law governing legal holidays and that the enactment of 1905 became inoperative because it had been superceded by the later law.

In other words the last legislature enacted an amendment to a statute that had passed out of existence six years before and that as Discovery day was included it did not make it a legal holiday.

Before opening up Mr. Knapp ascertained that saloons were running in Lafayette and Indianapolis and was advised that the attorney general of the state had given as his opinion that today is not a legal holiday.

A number of saloonkeepers determined to stand the loss occasioned by closing rather than take a chance on having a black mark against their licenses. Several of them were without barkeepers as they had instructed their employes not to open up and the employes had taken advantage of the permission to go fishing and hunting.

Opening Becomes General.

At noon most of the down town saloons opened for business and no effort was made to molest them. Marion B. Johnson, of the board of public safety, and Chief Abbott held a consultation with City Attorney H. G. Hogan and it was agreed that while they did not think the law valid they would proceed with the case in hand.

Late this afternoon Chief Abbott filed an affidavit in the circuit court in which he charged Knapp with permitting persons other than the members of his family to remain in his saloon on a legal holiday.

This was immediately presented to Judge O'Rourke with a motion to quash it on account of the unconstitutionality of the law and after he had gone through the statutes the judge sustained the motion and decided Discovery day is not a legal holiday.

The 1911 act was written in Fort Wayne at the request of the Knights of Columbus here and in other parts of the state. The attorney went back to the act of 1905 and did not find that of 1911. In transcribing it he omitted Lincoln's birthday and if the new section had stood Abraham Lincoln would have been sacrificed for Christopher Columbus.

The decree orders the General Electric company to conduct all its business under its own name and the dissolution of the National Electrical company and about thirty-five subsidiary corporations. The petition was dismissed as to the Kentucky Electrical company.

The contention of the government was that the General Electric company and its subsidiary corporations had entered into an unlawful combination in restraint of trade.

DAY OF REST IN M'NAMARA TRIAL

Holiday Forces Adjournment of Court Until Tomorrow.

BATTLE OVER JURY

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 12.—Columbus day, a legal holiday in this state, halted today the trial of James B. McNamara, under indictment for the murder of nineteen men in the explosion of the Times building here a year ago.

When court reconvenes tomorrow the examination of talesmen will be taken up where interrupted at the opening of the session of the trial yesterday. In the county jail today besides James B. McNamara and his brother, John J., were the twelve veniremen who temporarily were drafted into the jury box for preliminary examination when court adjourned yesterday. Though it had been expected that this process would constitute a perfunctory and monotonous chapter in the trial likely to drag through many weeks, the situation as a result of yesterday's quizzing of the initial veniremen has changed somewhat and it now is believed that many a passage at arms will ensue between counsel over the question of competency of talesmen who have formed opinions concerning warfare between capital and union labor. Attorneys for the defense today declared they would continue their action of yesterday in seeking to determine the state of mind of every possible juror as to trade unionism, because they expect the state to allege labor warfare as a motive for the explosion. The prosecution in turn will follow its tactics of yesterday in objecting to this phase of the examination, holding that it is "not relevant at this time to the main issue, that of an individual, not a labor union, on trial."

CHINESE MUTINY; SLAUGHTER 200

rived at Hankow. The missionaries at Wu Chang are safe.

Five hundred troops have joined the rebels and the fighting continues daily.

Chinese passengers are forbidden to travel on the Pekin and Hankow railroad beyond Cu Matien, Hunan province, in either direction.

REBELLION IS SPREADING.

Hankow, China, Oct. 12.—The revolutionary movement is gaining momentum with every hour. Since noon yesterday it has swept the little city of Han-Yang and the native quarter of Hankow. Great numbers of Chinese are joining the movement voluntarily.

The losses in the fighting thus far aggregate several hundred, but practically all the dead are Manchus. The slogan of the movement, which is guided by shrewd and temperate leaders, is evidently "down with the Manchus."

Thus far there has been no indication of any animosity against foreigners on the part of the revolutionists. The capture of Han-Yang, which is a town of perhaps 100,000, just north of Hankow, has delivered into the hands of the revolutionists the arsenal and the important Han-Yang Iron works. The revolutionists had no trouble in Han-Yang, overwhelmingly outnumbering the loyal troops. General Chang Pico escaped by flight and the members of the local government were dispersed.

The popularity of the revolutionary movement all along the river and in the interior is indicated by apparently authentic reports that several nearby cities have fallen. When resistance was offered the rebel forces the towns appear to have been put to the torch.

The Methodist missionaries in Wu Chang are known to be safe. An expeditionary force is now engaged in gathering up the Americans and rescuing them wherever they are hemmed in by the natives.

DEATH CLAIMS FORT WAYNE MAN

Castle Garden, through which now pour annually the thousands of foreign-born people who seek homes in America.

Truck Patch on Broadway.

The young man's first employment in America was as workman in a truck patch at Fifty-first street and Bloomingdale road, long since transformed into one of the busiest portions of New York's famous Broadway. Scarcely any portion of the newer or northern portion of New York city was cut through, though it had been laid out on a magnificent scale more than a hundred years ago by far-sighted pioneers who appreciated teh advantage of systematic city-building. Miles and miles of New York city territory, now containing scores of the city's greatest buildings and most important points of interest, were but unimproved fields when Mr. McKeon as a young man fresh from the land of Erin took up his struggle in a new country.

As a boy it was his privilege to see and to hear Webster, Clay, Calhoun and other national figures of their day as they came to the metropolis. He heard the wonderful Jenny Lind charm the city with her marvelous voice.

Scott's Return From Mexico.

He recalled vividly the return of General Winfield Scott from the victorious war with Mexico as he rode through the streets of New York city mounted on a mustang. Earlier in the war, when recruits were badly needed, Mr. McKeon often said many of the wandering New Yorkers were induced to enlist by the prospect of rich loot from the churches of Old Mexico which they hoped to seize when the Mexican cities were taken. In one or two instances the looting was attempted, but American authorities dealt so severely with the guilty soldiers that trouble of this character soon ceased.

Another picture that remained vivid in Mr. McKeon's memory was that of the Astor opera house riots in which the big theater was wrecked when Macready, the English actor, appeared in America. It was the popular retaliation for indignities which had been offered Forrest, the American tragedian, upon his English tour. Mr. McKeon was in the theater during the height of the uproar, and when the shooting began he managed to make a somewhat hasty exit by way of a rear door of the theater. This was in 1849, and a total of twenty-two people were killed during the disturbance.

Saw First Steam Fire Engine.

In Philadelphia Mr. McKeon saw the first steam fire engine ever built and witnessed its initial test, and recalls the tremendous sensation it caused.

In 1855 Mr. McKeon left New York city and came to Crestline, O., securing employment in the railroad shops there for what was familiarly known as the "P" company. Conditions of those days were in striking contrast to those which obtain in railroad shops today, for even the railroad company's credit was of very slinky character. Mr. McKeon was once directed by the company to purchase a bushel of charcoal in Crestline for use in the shops and was sent back by the charcoal merchant with the statement that he must have the cash before the company could have the charcoal.

Pay came in the form of the "scrip" currency of those days, which was uncertain as to value and was almost invariably discounted when one attempted the purchase of necessaries of life.

Came to Fort Wayne in 1868.

Mr. McKeon came to Fort Wayne in 1868 and secured employment in the shops of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad. This city had been his home continuously since that time, though he retired from active work twenty-five years ago. Occasionally he spent a portion of his summers at Rome City, but more recently had preferred the comfortable surroundings of his daughter's home to the cottage at the lake.

Mr. McKeon was united in marriage in New York in 1844 to Miss Ann Donnelly, whose death occurred in this city but a few years ago. They were the parents of thirteen children. But three of the are living—James McKeon, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Grable and Charles McKeon, of this city. Miss Grace Hogan is a niece of the aged man, and Joseph Grable is a grandson.

Two brothers of Mr. McKeon joined the gold rush to California in early days, one of them going in 1848 and the other in 1853, making the long trip "around the Horn." With the exception of a single letter received from one of the brothers a year after he reached California, Mr. McKeon never heard from them since they started away on their fortune-hunting mission nearly sixty years ago.

FINDS VALUABLES ON RIVER BOTTOM

Elkhart Lad Discovers Hidden Treasure—Woodard Robbery Recalled.

Elkhart, Ind., Oct. 12.—Walter Stone, a 12-year-old lad of this city, made a startling find in the St. Joseph river while fording the great stream near the Elkhart avenue bridge.

The little fellow noticed a peculiar glow on the bottom of the river and turning out of his course he reached below the surface and dipped up handful after handful of valuable society emblems and gold pieces. More than 500 different lodge pins were taken from the water and several gold coins were found in the collection.

Eight years ago the loan offices of T. W. Woodard, of this city, were robbed, but the robbers were never captured. Many lodge pins, diamonds and other valuables were taken and the find made by the boy tallies with the list of goods taken from the loan shop by the thieves. Several costly gems were stolen and workmen are now panning the sand from the spot where the find was made to see if they can locate the missing jewels.

VOTE ON SUBSIDY.

Two Adams County Townships Decide on Railroads.

Decatur, Ind., Oct. 12.—At a special election yesterday Monroe and Wabash townships, of Adams county, decided in favor of giving $17,500 to the Fort Wayne and Springfield railway for the purpose of establishing a right-of-way through the southern extension of the interurban. The election resulted as follows:

For subsidy—Monroe, 345; Wabash, 303. Against—Monroe, 278; Wabash, 191.

The idea of the officials of the company is to build into Portland, thence to Richmond, making a connection between that city and Fort Wayne. The matter of securing right-of-way has been pending for some time, and the chief trouble seemed to be located just this side of Portland. Officials of the company, however, are confident of accomplishing their aims, and work is to begin just as soon as matters are definitely straightened out.

HOSPITAL ASSURED.

Wabash, Ind., Oct. 12.—Tuesday evening the local hospital board met at the city hall and made an official report, whereby the maintenance of the hospital is assured. Of course, the entire amount has not yet been subscribed, but from present indications there will be no trouble in securing the balance. This is good news to the city, as the citizens absolutely need a hospital.

MYSTERY AT DECATUR.

Clothing and Note Found on Bridge—Officers Investigating.

Decatur, Ind., Oct. 12.—Citizens of this city are greatly agitated over the finding of a suit of clothes with a note pinned to it, on the Monroe street bridge yesterday. The puzzling find may be the result of a clever joke or it may mean that some unknown man leaped to his death from the high bridge some time Tuesday night.

Night Officer Blazer was crossing the bridge when he stumbled over something. On further investigation he discovered a suit of clothes. Pinned to the suit was a note that reads as follows:

"The world don't need me any longer, so I am going to a better place. I have no friends, so don't hunt for any. If you find me, please bury my remains. H. D."

If the officers fail to find a clue as to who wrote the note the river may be dragged.

HONOR OLDEST MEMBER.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 12.—At the regular meeting Tuesday evening of the local Masonic lodge a pleasant surprise was given George T. Kocher, whose 83rd birthday was celebrated. Mr. Kocher was in attendance at the meeting of the lodge, of which he has been an officer for years, and despite his more than four score of years he was one of the most active men in the meeting. He was completely surprised, however, when all marched into the banquet hall and he found himself guest of honor at the spread. He was presented with a calabash pipe as a souvenir of the occasion.

LITTLE TOWN RE-BUILT.

Warsaw, Ind., Oct. 12.—Only a little more than four months ago the business section of the town of North Webster, near this city, was reduced to ashes by the most disastrous fire that ever visited that place, but in that short time the progressive business men of that town have erected new buildings upon the site of the ruins and have placed the city in better condition than ever before. All but one of the new buildings have been completed and have already been occupied. The other building will be ready for use within a couple of weeks.

DOG BITES LITTLE GIRL.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 12.—Despite all the dog muzzles that have been purchased during the last two weeks, the fox terrier dog of Wes Allen, of North Main street, did not have one on, and as a result Opal Kessler, the five-year-old daughter of Vern Kessler, of Brownwood, was bitten Tuesday afternoon. Dr. F. G. Grisier cauterized the wound, and the dog has been penned up, to await any results that may occur.

FALL FESTIVAL IN FULL BLAST

Hartford City Celebration Attracts Many Pleasure Seekers.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 12.—At noon yesterday the great Marchants' and Farmers' Fall Festival opened in this city. The streets were thronged with people and the first day's entertainment proved to be more than a success. Even greater crowds attended the festivities today and farmers from distant parts of the county and from neighboring counties arrived in the city at an early hour this morning to get their share of the good times. The fair will continue for the remaining part of the week.

Not since the days of the old county fairs has this city seen such a display of fruits, vegetables and stock as is being exhibited at the Merchants' and Farmers' Festival. The finest products of Blackford county's soil, its best cattle, horses, hogs, sheep and poultry and vegetables, fruits and flowers are on show. There is also an elaborate exhibit of the handiwork of the housewives in culinary art and art and needlework.

PATROLMAN RECOVERING.

Joseph Bidwell Leaves Hospital—Assailant to Be Tried.

Wabash, Ind., Oct. 12.—Patrolman Joseph Bidwell, who just two weeks ago last night was stabbed while on duty, was removed yesterday afternoon to his home. Mr. Bidwell has been exceedingly fortunate to have recovered so quickly after being wounded as seriously as he was. Dr. Houser, who removed Mr. Bidwell to his home, said that the injured man would be out on the streets in a few days.

David Johnson, a day laborer, who attacked Mr. Bidwell, has been held at the county jail awaiting the result of Bidwell's injuries. Fortunately for him the patrolman has recovered, and the charge will be changed from murder to assault and battery with intent to kill. Mr. Johnson, who was intoxicated at the time of the deed, now regrets the whole affair. The trial will be heard next Wednesday.

WOULD ABOLISH "TREATING."

The recent convention of the National German-American alliance put itself on record as opposed to the vicious and distinctly American custom of "treating" and resolved to do what it is able to abolish the practice. It will be a good work in which to engage and if it shall in the end succeed will earn great measure of credit. Barroom treating presents one of the very worst phases of the drinking custom and it is almost peculiar to the United States. It is practiced to some extent in England, but in no such degree as here. It is responsible for a large part of the extravagance of money-spending and a larger part of the drunkenness which distinguishes the use of intoxicants in this country. A majority of men would drink much less if they did their drinking alone. The social customs peculiar to the conduct of the American saloon always encourage and in most cases directly lead to excesses. A barroom group of half a dozen or more congenial fellows does not consider its social obligations discharged until there has been a "buy clear round." Nor does it necessarily stop with one circuit of the crowd. A majority of drinkers in this way get not only "more than they can carry," but are led by a silly sense of honor into spending a great deal more than they can afford. The senseless fear of being considered a "grouch" or getting the repute of a "tightwad" operates with great force to lead men into making several kinds of fools of themselves. Treating and the dice-box are two evil phases of the American saloon that the law ought to abolish, so long as the law does not abolish the bar business altogether. There is no more sense in a man buying his friends their drinks than in his buying their breeches or boots for them; much less, indeed.

THE STEPHENSON INQUIRY.

An interesting fact brought out in the course of the Stephenson investigation by a committee of the United States senate was that the Wisconsin legislator who originally made the formal charges that Stephenson's election to the senate had been procured by corruption had "started things" entirely upon hearsay. He admitted that at the time he had no direct evidence, but said, in extenuation of his efforts, that common report and newspaper gossip led him to believe there had been something wrong. What his motives were and of what the bases of his charge consisted do not now so much matter, so far as the affair in hand is concerned. It has been pretty thoroughly established by the inquiry that Stephenson's triumph in the primaries was preceded by a lavish use of money. It is admitted that over $107,000 was spent by him, and what may have been spent for him by interests concerned in his success there is no means of knowing. Legislator Blaine did not consult a high standard of morals when he launched his charges with nothing substantial or conclusive to support them, but that he was guessing in a profitable direction is proved by the sequel. The testimony in the Stephenson investigation discloses an immoral if not criminal use of money. That the primary election law of the state was disregarded in many ways, was evaded in many others and distinctly violated in still others has been brought out with tolerable clearness. The case of Blaine is a separate matter. Whether he was moved by hysteria, malice or a desire for notoriety in no wise nor to any extent mitigates what has been proved with respect to the means employed by Stephenson, or for Stephenson to procure the senatorial nomination. The employment of any such sum as admittedly was spent in his behalf means debauchment of some kind, whether within the specific meaning of the law or not.

DISCOVERY DAY.

By law the twelfth of October is a legal holiday in Indiana, underlying it being the purpose to commemorate one of the greatest events of human history. Whether it was on this day of the month that Christopher Columbus caught that first view of the land that marked the discovery of the new world may be somewhat apocryphal; but no great importance can attach to the differences and agreements of the chronologists and historians. It is fairly well fixed that it was the twelfth of October, and certainly it was in that month and somewhere near that day of it. Nor is it definitely fixed which land it was that Columbus first set foot upon. Dispute has long been waged as to this. It may have been any one of several of the smaller islands of the West Indies. The truth has only a relative and sentimental value historically. The great continents to which the Genoese voyager pioneered later old world hosts lay beyond. The significance of Discovery day suffers no detraction by the disputes as to niceties of time and place. Columbus was the first of civilized mankind to sight the new world, and upon his discovery has been founded new peoples and new governments. It is fitting that this surpassing event in history be suitably commemorated by the people of the great nation his genius and daring made possible.

After devoting almost a month to the task Aviator Rodgers has passed the half-way mark of his aeroplane journey across the continent. He has broken long distance records and will establish some new ones of enduring sort; but he still has before him the frowning barrier of the Rockies. The mountains are not likely to prove much easier to Rodgers from this side than they proved to Fowler from the other side. However, a try at the obstacle will demonstrate what outlook there is for transcontinental aeroplane service.

The lady suffragists of California lost their first battle for a constitutional erection of the franchise for women in that state, but they did not go down in red burial blent. Among the things that were carried is the initiative and referendum, under which they have the opportunity to submit their cause again to the people. They promise to avail themselves of it and in the next campaign will no doubt have a care for the men of 'Frisco, who ungallantly scuttled the suffrage ship.

Among the exhibits at the great exposition of the brewery interest now open in Chicago is a model of what a drinking hall and beer garden ought to be. May be fine enough as a sample, but if the brewers have as much trouble displacing the several hundred thousands of bars of the old kind as there has been in Indiana getting results out of the Proctor law, their model will remain the pretty stage picture it is.

The more the Lorimer case is investigated the more there is to investigate. The number of "fixed" solons who turned Lorimer's political necessities into a good thing for themselves has been increased and there is promise of further additions. The senate next winter is evidently going to have a very painful task to perform.

The south half of the track elevation problem is settled. But that doesn't seem to hold out much promise for the settlement of the other and greater half.

CUTTING OUT PICTURES.

(New York Times.)

One feature of the autumn fiction will not be noted with pleasure by one very worthy class of citizens. So marked is the decrease in the number of illustrations used that it looks as if a halt had been called in the custom of slipping into the story books from one to half a dozen colored pictures that show young ladies dressed in the height of fashion, holding intimate converse, pleasurable or painful, with athletic and handsome youths.

The army of illustrators will view this development with dismay, the publishers will strike out with thankfulness a big item of expenditure, and a goodly portion of the public will, undoubtedly, be pleased. As for that huge mass of it which makes or breaks books of fiction, whose feelings and tastes the publishers are forever trying to forecast and rarely succeeding—save by chance—nobody can guess whether or not they will care.

Publishers have long been convinced that illustrations help the sale of novels. But the falling prices of fiction have forced them to economize in the cost of book production. Not much really artistic book illustration has been done in this country, and if some of the talent, seemingly capable of better things, that has gone into the hurried, conventional saccharine decoration of fiction should be forced to turn its attention to work finer and more worth while it would be a result for which everybody might be thankful.

Milk From These High-Bred Cows

Mrs. Housewife—

Here is the finest milk that ever came from cows. And you can have it every day of the year.

Our dairies are located in seven northern states—in the heart of our best dairying sections. They are stocked with Holstein cows.

The dairies are cleanly; the cows are inspected. The purity of the milk is most carefully guarded. Wherever you go, whatever you pay, you will never taste milk that's better than Van Camp's.

Water Taken Out

To bring this milk to you in an economical way we evaporate most of the water. Not by boiling—not by scalding. We do it in a vacuum, in moderate heat—at 125 degrees.

This is done close to each dairy, in a modern plant, under clean and aseptic conditions. Thus two-thirds of the water is taken out from the milk that comes fresh from the cow.

Nothing is added whatever—no sugar, no starch, no preservative. Nothing but water is taken out. Then the milk is put up in sealed cans, and then pasteurized. When you put back the water, you have the natural milk as it came from the cow, save for the sterilization.

8% Butter Fat

The milk as it comes to you is as thick as thick cream. It is 28 per cent solids—8 per cent butter fat. In coffee or on cereals it tastes like the richest cream.

In cooking it gives a rich flavor to milk dishes—the flavor of whole, rich milk. You don't get whole milk from the milk wagon, because the milk separates. There is always a dearth of butter fat or solids. The milk which gets to your cooking is rarely more than a half-milk.

You'll be amazed at the flavor which Van Camp's gives to milk dishes. Yet it's nothing but rich, whole milk.

Utterly Sterile

Van Camp's Milk is free from germs—absolutely free. Where there are millions of germs in each drop of raw milk, there isn't one in a gallon of this.

Think what that means—no chance of infection. All the dangers that lurk in raw milk are avoided. A pasteurized milk—the only sort safe to use.

You can buy, if you wish, a month's supply at a time. It is like having a cow in the pantry.

Then you have milk or cream rich and fresh, any time you want it. You have all you want with none left over, for the opened can keeps till you use it up.

Saves About Half

We save you the cost of the milkman's daily delivery. That costs more than the milk. And we save you all the waste. The use of Van Camp's, in most homes, cuts milk bills right in two.

And you get the finest milk in America—milk from high-bred cows—a milk equal to Swiss. It has been perfected by famous experts, brought from Switzerland and Holland. There is no other evaporated milk in this country nearly so good as Van Camp's.

The 16-oz. can—a full pint of Van Camp's—costs 10 cents. The 6-oz. can costs 5 cents. That's with two-thirds the water evaporated. Your grocer gets it direct from our nearest dairy.

Gentlemen: I am sending you herewith an ordinance appropriating $1,050.22 to parks account. Of this amount $741.22 represents tax collections for river bank improvements, $315.00 being derived from the sale of a house from the Zollinger property in Lawton park, and $24.00 paid in by residents living along St. Joe boulevard for the oiling of that street.

As this money properly belongs to the park fund, I would recommend that this appropriation be made.

Dear Sir: Will you please arrange for an appropriation of $700.00 to the advertising and printing account? Owing to the great number of contracts and resolutions presented to the common council during the past nine months, treating on various subjects, causing a greater expenditure than usual, this fund is now practicaly exhausted; hence this request.

COMMUNICATION FROM BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 10, 1911.

W. S. Cutshall, Controller.

Dear Sir: We have been making extensive repairs to paved streets upon which the guaranty of maintenance has expired, which has caused a heavy drain on the maintenance and repair of streets account. Both brick and asphalt streets are now in first class condition for the winter. We have also made repairs to paved streets which have been opened by the waterworks department and have rendered a bill for same, which sum amounting to almost $250.00 has been paid to the controller and placed in the general fund. Owing to these repairs we still have a number of bills to meet, one of nearly $1,200.00, for repairs to Maumee avenue; hence we ask that you arrange for an appropriation of $1,800.00 to the above account, which we feel confident will carry us through the remainder of this year.

Respectfully yours,
FRANK T. BENOY,
G. A. SCHWEGMAN,
E. J. LENNON,
Board of Public Works.

COMMUNICATION FROM CITY CONTROLLER.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 10, 1911.

To the Common Council, City.

Gentlemen: I am sending you herewith an ordinance amending said sections 1 to 56, inclusive, of the ordinance fixing the rates and amending the ordinance. I would submit the following figures that were compiled for use in the trial of said cause, some of which were introduced as evidence. It must be understood, however, that the market extends on Barr street, from Washington street to Main street, and in determining the price to be charged for stands it is important to know the number of stands the city has to rent, which are as follows:

In the covered market from Washington street to the alley south of the city hall	112
Uncovered stands between the alley south of the city hall and Berry street	23
Uncovered stands between Berry street and Main street	40
Making a total of	175

The next item to estimate is the number of days during the year that these stands will be used. For the purpose of arriving at some idea of the income, it was in a way more or less agreed that the number of market days during the year would be about seventy-one. This would be assuming that all these stands, covered and uncovered, would be occupied every market day for practically six months. It is possible that some of the stands in the covered market might be used during the winter months, but this is not true concerning the uncovered stands. Whether the covered stands are used more than seventy-one day during the year makes little difference or no difference, as the revenue is fixed and is paid by the year. It is also assumed in said decree that all of the 112 stands will be rented for the entire period.

It must also be borne in mind that in estimating the number of days that all the stands are used that crop conditions must be considered.

The receipts for the market house for the stands rented per day at the rate of 25 cents per day for the year commencing August 1, 1910, and ending July 31, 1911, are as follows:

August, 1910	$ 229 75
September, 1910	351 50
October, 1910	262 25
November, 1910	140 75
December, 1910	109 75
January, 1911	36 50
February, 1911	84 25
March, 1911	35 25
April, 1911	40 50
May, 1911	70 25
June, 1911	165 50
July, 1911	222 50
Making a total of	$1,718 75

The receipts from covered stands rented for the year 1911 being 56, amounts to 2,150 00

Making a total of $3,868 75

From this sum there must be deducted the revenue of 34 stands outside of the market, at 25 cents a day for 71 market days, amounting to 603 50

Leaving the balance or earning capacity of the market space..$3,265.25

The reason that the rental of $868.25 from the 34 stands is deducted is that the marketmaster collected on ten stands on Berry street outside of the market, and 24 stands on Barr street, north of Main street, outside of the market.

The expenses for operating the market house for a period of one year, as computed by the different departments of the city, are as follows:

Officer Petgen, patrolling city market	$ 195 00
Light for said market	475 80
Marketmaster's salary	480 00
Street cleaning for 71 days at $5.76 per day	404 70
Street cleaning for the remaining 85 days, at $3.00 per day	275 00
Flushing sewers	36 00
Brooms	8 50
Incidentals (actually represented by vouchers issued for supplies, etc.)	183 14
Water for closets, fountain and washing market space	185 50
Clerk, board of safety	50 00
Insurance	40 00
Lamp renewals	10 00
Sanitary officer	86 26
City sealer	82 00
Making a total of	$2,486 90

The judge of the circuit court allowed the following items of expense:

Marketmaster	$ 600 00
Street cleaning	350 00
Police	142 00
City sealer	100 00
Sanitary officers	142 00
Clerk, Board of safety	50 00
Brooms	10 00
Contingencies	100 00
Making a total of	$1,494 00

If the rates were fixed at 10 cents per day outside of the covered market, as suggested by the court, the income from the 63 stands for 71 days would be....$ 447 30

The revenue from the covered stands at the rates suggested by the court, or $12.00 per annum for 112 stands, would be.. 1,344 00

Making a total of $1,791 30

The court stated that the revenue from covered and uncovered stands would be $2,032.70, made up as follows:

97 stands at 10c a day for 71 days	$ 688 70
112 stands at $12.00 per year	1,344 00
Making a total of	$2,032.70

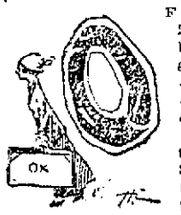
Men Who Helped to Make America

The Founder of Virginia.



FOR numerous family of Smiths, one bearing the equally general name of John was the founder of the Colony of Virginia.

He was one of the Lincolnshire Smiths, and was born in Willoughby in 1759. He was so daring and adventurous during his school days that he planned a flight to sea.

After his father's death he was left in charge of guardians, who, in order to seize his little patrimony, encouraged the boy to run away.

At fifteen he left England, visited France and the Low Countries, and entered the French army. When the fighting was over in France he joined some other English soldiers of fortune in the armies of Philip the Second and the Duke of Alva, fighting in the Netherlands.

JOHN SMITH.

His life was a varied one. He became a hermit, and a student of Marcus Aurelius and Machiavelli. Then he became a pirate, afterward a traveller in Italy, a fighter of the Turks, where he was held as a slave until his escape into Russia and his return to England.

Here he heard wonderful tales of the New World, and was fired with a colonizer's ambition. After long delay, he formed a company, capitalized it, and, obtaining a grant of land from the Crown, set out in December, 1606, with 105 men and three small vessels.

In April of the following year they landed at what is now Jamestown. He became the leading spirit of the colony. The story of his capture by the Indians and his romantic rescue by Pocahontas, the daughter of a great Indian chief, were described by Smith himself in a letter to Queen Anne.

Ill health compelled his return to England, but he lived to make later voyages. The date and place of his death are not known.

The Ætna Life Insurance Company in capital and surplus has over ten million dollars in addition to legal requirements, which stand between its policyholders and any possible failure to meet its obligations.

IN THE CITY'S CHURCHES

CHURCH JANITOR FOR YEARS.

Observes Thirtieth Anniversary of His Marriage.

One of the oldest and best known church janitors in the city is John J. Conahan, who is now janitor at the Plymouth Congregational church and also officiating in the same capacity at the Achduth Vashalom church. He has been with the latter congregation for eight years and with the Congregational church for the last year or two.

For many years Mr. Conahan was the janitor at the First Baptist church. He began there during the pastorate of Rev. S. A. Northrop, over twenty-five years ago. He was there when Rev. Mr. Northrop left and continued under the pastorates of Revs. Henson and Field and for a time after Rev. Dr. Vichert came, leaving the Baptist church about five years ago.

Today is the thirtieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. Conahan. It was thirty years ago this evening that Mr. Conahan was married to Miss Jennie D. Allen, the ceremony occurring in the residence that was located where the Hope hospital now stands. The officiating clergyman was Rev. S. A. Northrop.

This evening at their home, 807 Wilt street, Mr. and Mrs. Conahan will entertain their children and a few friends in honor of the anniversary of their marriage.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

MONTGOMERY AND STONE.

America's Greatest Comedians Tomorrow Night in "The Old Town."

No two comedians on the American stage are possessed of a wider equipment of material and methods for the successful accomplishment of their business of making people laugh than David Montgomery and Fred Stone, now playing in "The Old Town," which will be seen at the Majestic on Friday evening.

They both know more than the rudiments of legitimate stage methods, and both can sing a little if it is demanded of them. But in their well stocked armory, the most valued weapons in the campaign against dull care are to be found in the wierd and wonderful devices of make-up. It has always been so. From the beginning of their successful career, they have evidenced always that genius born of an infinite capacity for taking pains, which is the secret of the marvelous transformations possible of achievement through the use of cosmetics and kindred transformity material.

It will be recalled by most people who saw the same players in "The Wizard of Oz," that their first favor with audiences was effected initially through their quaint make-ups, one as the "scare crow" and the other as the "tin wood man," the latter character played in the production by comedian "Montgomery," the former the impersonation of his associate, Mr. Fred Stone. As a pair of itinerant Italian organ grinders in "The Red Mill," the same pair struck another bull's eye for effective burlesque characterization. But in "The Old Town" it will be admitted that for quaintness and ludicrous effects in costuming and facial accord therewith, the pair outdo all their prior success in burlesque characted cartoons.

"QUINCY ADAMS SAWYER."

That Elaborately Produced Rural Play Comes Again.

It will seem like clasping hands with an old friend to greet "Quincy Adams Sawyer," that clean, wholesome and thoroughly entertaining play, when it comes again to the Majestic Theater Saturday for two performances. The story, the characters, scenes and situations of the bucolic drama are so familiar now as to need no further description. Those who did not see the play when presented here before have at least heard all about it for seldom has anything been presented in this city that left such a good impression. Since "Quincy Adams Sawyer" was last given here it has had its famous run at the Academy of Music in New York city, where it packed the theater to its utmost capacity. It has also returned to the big Boston theater in Boston and played to the "standing room only" record every night.

REFORMED SYNOD OF THE NORTHWEST HARD AT WORK

The latter is the field secretary for the Home Missionary society of the denomination.

The newly elected officers assumed their duties this morning with the opening of the sessions.

The Sessions Today.

When the synod reconvened at 9 o'clocks this forenoon the large auditorium of the church was filled. A devotional service conducted by Revs. L. C. Hessert and H. G. Settlage preceded the business session and, at the latter the president, Rev. Mr. Kunst, announced the synod committees.

The address of the morning was by the Rev. B. Ruf, of this city, the superintendent of the Reformed Orphans home. His theme was, "The Duty of the Church Toward Her Orphans." It was along practical lines. The church has the care of her orphans and they should be rightfully provided for, he said. The principal part of his discourse was a presentation of the affairs of the orphans' home in this city. He spoke of its successful history, its conditions, and its needs, and was given an attentive hearing.

Standing Committees.

At the close of the forenoon session the president, Dr. Kunst, announced the standing committees, the chairman of each being as follows:

Delegates to Sister Synods—Synod of the East, Rev. Paul Wienand, D. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Central Synod, Rev. C. M. Schauf, D. D., Covington, Ky.; Ohio Synod, Rev. George Longaker, Canal Winchester, O.

The morning session was largely devoted to the reading of the reports of the several boards. The church erection board reported through its chairman, Rev. C. F. Kriete, D. D., of Louisville, Ky.; the Fort Wayne orphans' home by Rev. F. H. Diehm, of Huntington; the board of missions by the general secretary, Rev. G. D. Elliker, and the board of management of the mission house at Franklin, Wis., through Rev. J. J. Janett.

The opening sermon of the president of the synod, Rev. Henry W. Vitz, was a discourse in whic hthe mission of the church and its ministry was elucidated, the central thought being that this mission was the conversion of the sin-cursed world to Christ, a sermon that was especially appropriate to the audience he addressed.

Dr. Vitz took as his text the words found in the sixteenth chapter of Mark, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." They were the words of Christ to his apostles, spoken to the eleven after his resurrection and before his ascension to heaven, and in his introduction the synod president drew attention to the modes of working in the Lord's kingdom peculiar to the present time in that the once dominating custom of calling down the fire from heaven, emphasizing the judgment of God, has been suspended by emphasizing God's love and the elimination of God's wrath.

The church must become conscious of her duty, he said, not as it is self-imposed, but as it devolves upon her in the divine commission to go into all the world and preach the gospel. It is the great work of the church. The field is the world. The number of souls to whom the gospel is to be preached is not small. It is to all creatures, and in the kingdom of Christ there is no caste.

But the preaching of the gospel needs the proclamation of the law as a forerunner, preparing the way. "The law should be preached, not so much to make people better, but rather to bring them to a consciousness of their sins, especially against God.

The gospel is not for the self-righteous, for such as are deaf to the gospel story of redemption. The self-righteous do not feel the need of a Savior. It is the conscious and self-condemning sinner who glories and rejoices in the gospel. The gratitude of such a redeemed sinner will express itself in willing obedience, devoted to the service of God and his fellowmen. The law has no condemnation for him. He has ideals to strive for and Christ embodies the perfect ideal life.

This is but a synopsis of the discourse of Dr. Vitz. It was able and interesting throughout, holding the close attention of his audience, and following its delivery the president declared the synod in session. The roll call of members by the stated clerk, Rev. J. J. Janett, and the election of new officers were the first matters of business transacted. With the organization of the synod session perfected came the address of welcome to the delegates. This was delivered by Rev. John H. Bosch, the pastor of the convention church. It was warm in the greeting extended, voicing the gladness of himself, his congregation, and our people generally at the presence among us of the delegates and isilors and the assuvrance that the home members would do everything in their power to make their stay with us a pleasure to all.

The entire service of the evening, as will be the case with the proceedings of the synod sessions, was conducted in German.

The Synod Officers.

The synod officers during the past year, whose faces are given in The Sentinel today, are: President, Rev. Henry W. Vitz, of Indianapolis; vice president, Rev. C. F. Kriete, of Louisville, Ky.; stated clerk, Rev. J. J. Janett, Sheboygan, Wis.; corresponding secretary, Rev. Paul Traeger, Baxter, Iowa; treasurer, Elder F. W. Hoff, Terre Haute, Ind.

Rev. Mr. Vitz is the pastor of the St. John Reformed church at Indianapolis. He was elected to the office of synod president at the sessions held last year at Sheboggan, Wis. He has been pastor of the church at Indianapolis for twelve years and is a fine German and English scholar. His father was one of the prominent ministers of northern Indiana for years.

Many Fort Wayne people are intimately acquainted with Rev. C. F. Kriete, who has been the vice president of the synod. He was formerly pastor in this city of the Salem Reformed church, but for probably twenty years has been pastor of the leading Reformed church at Louisville, Ky., where he is now located. He is a college man, a fine pulpit speaker, and a beloved pastor, one of the most eminent in the synod.

Rev. J. J. Janett has held the office of stated clerk, performed its duties so efficiently that at each session of the synod he has been re-elected. For many years he was pastor of the Zion church at Sheboygan, Wis., but is now retired from the ministry. He is the treasurer of the denomination's mission house at Franklin, Wis.

Rev. Paul Traeger, who has been the corresponding secretary of the synod, resides at Baxter, Iowa, where he is pastor of the Reformed church. He is one of the most talented young ministers in the denomination and a brilliant pulpit speaker.

Elder F. W. Hoff, the treasurer of the synod, resides at Terre Haute, where for many years he has been engaged in the mercantile business with his son, but now leading a retired life. He is active and prominent in church affairs and has had charge of the synod's finances for years.

Organized in Fort Wayne.

The synod of the Northwest is now forty-four years old. It is just the age of the pastor of the church in which its sessions are being held, Rev. Mr. Bosch. He referred to this fact in his welcome speech and it created no little amusement. Its organization took place in Fort Wayne. This was in 1867. Since then it has met twice before in this city, in 1897 and in 1905. Its last session was held at Sheboygan, Wis., near which city its great mission house is located.

The synod embraces all the states of the northwest, in fact, all west of Ohio and portions of Canada. It has thirteen classis, 246 congregations and 106 ministers. There are 26,467 communicants, 18,103 confirmed and 15,303 unconfirmed members, with 231 Sunday schools, 15,109 Sunday school scholars and 1,709 officers and teachers. Forty-six students are now preparing for the ministry. During the last year $31,012 have been given for benevolences and $174,292 for congregational purposes.

These are the figures from the statistical report for 1910. The reports for this year will show an increase. The synod is one of the largest of the eight synods of the denomination in the United States.

Entertainment of Guests.

The provisions for the entertainment of the delegates during their stay in the city are most admirable. They are the guests over the nights and for breakfast in the mornings at the homes of the members of the two synod congregations in Fort Wayne, the St. John Reformed and the Salem Reformed. Their dinners and suppers are served by the ladies of the church in the assembly room of the school building, which is adjoining and a part of the church building.

The hall is a large one and nicely adapted to this purpose and adjoining it are the kitchen apartments where the meals are prepared. The dining tables are arranged in long rows in the hall and decorated, as is also the hall, with harmonious colors. The meals served—and the ladies of the Reformed church know what good dinners and suppers ought to be and how to serve them—are the best. The visiting delegates speak in high terms of praise of the way in which they are being entertained at the homes and at the church.

Delegates Present.

The delegates who had registered at the opening sessions and responded to the roll call Wednesday evening when the synod was formally called to order were as follows:

Max—Vesey.

The wedding of Miss Sarah Waterhouse Vesey, daughter of Judge William J. Vesey, and Mr. Cecil Alviere Max, of Muncie, took place on Wednesday evening at the Vesey home in Thompson avenue at half-past 7 o'clock, Rev. C. Claude Travis, of the Wayne Street M. E. church, of which the bride and her family are prominent members, performed the marriage ceremony in the presence of about seventy-five guests besides a number of relatives from away. Previous to the hour of the ceremony a musical program was given by Miss Hermina Wiecking, of Bluffton, who sings beautifully. Miss Wiecking sang several love songs by d'Hardelot, "Afterwards, Love," "Because" and "I Know a Lovely arden" and "For You Alone," by Geehl. Miss Frances Merriman, of Decatur, played the piano accompaniments and also the bridal music from "Lohengrin" as the bride with her father entered the drawing room, where the marriage service was read. There were no attendants to the bride but four girl friends, Misses Evelyn and Jane Walter and Clara Poole from this city and Grace Bishop, of Bluffton, formed a pathway for the bride as she came in, while the bridegroom and clergyman entered from another doorway and awaited her coming. The bridal party stood in front of a wide arrangement of many small palms and ferns with tall vases of white chrysanthemums. The bride's gown was very becoming and she looked particularly girlish and sweet. The gown was fashioned in empire mode with long train of soft white satin with princess lace and pearl ornaments for its trimming. The bodice was made with high neck and the sleeves were a combination of lace and satin. A veil held to the hair by a cap of lilies of the valley fell in voluminous folds to the hem of the gown. The bride's bouquet was a shower effect composed of lilies of the valley and white orchids. Miss Margaret Vesey, who with her father and sister, Miss Catherine Vesey, received the guests, was handsomely gowned in an evening costume of gold cloth over which fell an imported net of creamy tone that was trimmed with an applique of lace and embroidered in green and gold beads. A narrow band of fur set off the bottom of the skirt. In her hair Miss Vesey wore a fancy band of gold. Miss Catherine Vesey was dressed in a white net hung over white satin messaline and trimmed with white chenille and silk flowers. Immediately after congratulations the guests were served a buffet supper in the dining-room. The decorations all over the house were of chrysanthemums and ferns with the exception of the dining-room, where many pink and white roses, lilies of the valley and tiny orchids of a pale yellow tint were used in profusion to decorate the mantel, windows and a large table set in the center of the room. The bride dispensed with a large cake and there were served individual wedding cakes in place in addition to dainty satin-ribboned boxes of cake for favors. All the lights were partially hidden in smilax. Miss Vesey was assisted during the evening in the reception rooms by Mrs. Allen J. Vesey, Mrs. John Vesey, Mrs. Lillian Underhill and Mrs. George W. Beers. The guests from out of town were Mr. W. E. Harrison and Miss Edith Harrison, of Union City; Mr. J. C. Oswald, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Edwards, of Leipsic, O.; Mrs. Pearl Max, of Muncie; Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Vesey, of Chicago. The bride and groom will be at home in Muncie after the first of November at 710 Vine street. Mr. Max is a druggist of that city and an excellent young business man. Mr. Max was graduated from De Pauw and Purdue universities. The bride wore a dark blue suit of whipcord and blue velvet toque trimmed with silk roses for traveling.

Springer—Wright.

Mr. Orville Wright, an electrical engineer who is connected with the motive power department of the Pennsylvania company in this city, was married at his former home in Marion on Wednesday, October 11. The Marion Leader contains an account of the wedding that will interest Mr. Wright's many friends here: "One of the most prominent affairs of the social season was the wedding of Miss Jessie Springer and Mr. Orville Wright, of Fort Wayne, which was solemnized this morning at 10 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Springer, of 505 West Fourth street. The beautiful ring ceremony was used, Rev. O. L. Kiplinger, chaplain of the state prison at Michigan City and a cousin of the bride, officiating. The ceremony was witnessed by only the members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends. The Springer home was very prettily arrayed for the occasion in colors of pink and white, vases of pink and white roses and carnations were placed about the different rooms and the chandeliers were entwined with ferns. In the living-room where the ceremony took place the decorations were especially beautiful. The ceremony took place before a curtain fashioned with strands of southern smilax, studded with pink roses. Previous to the ceremony, a harpist and violinist rendered a selection of bridal airs and upon the entrance of the bridal party, the beautiful wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played. Miss Josephine Springer, of Kokomo, and a cousin of the bride, was the first to descend the stairway, as flower maid. The bridal couple followed entering the ceremony room together, where they met Rev. Kiplinger. During the ceremony the harpist played "I Love You Truly," by Carrie Jacobs Bond. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played as a recessional. The bride was attired in an attractive traveling costume of dark blue chiffon broadcloth, with blouse in corresponding shade, and elaborately trimmed in Venetian lace. She carried a shower bouquet of Killarney roses. The little flower maid appeared in a pretty frock of white, with pink ribbons and carried a small basket filled with pink roses. At the conclusion of the ceremony an elaborate wedding breakfast was served. The bride's table was decorated in pink and white. A large French basket filled with pink roses and tied with a huge bow of pink ribbon was used as a centerpiece. The table was lighted with pink tapers in crystal holders and hooded in pink. From a chandelier festooned with ferns, pink ribbons were suspended to each cover to which were fastened tiny figures of cupid. Unique place cards, decorated with wedding bells were used and the favors were tiny hand-decorated hearts tied with white ribbons and were drawn from the wedding cake. Other guests were seated at small tables. Each of the tables was decorated with small pink and white baskets, tied with bows of pink tulle, and lighted with pink tapers. The color scheme was also carried out in the menu. Mr. and Mrs. Wright left at noon for Chicago, from where they left for a wedding trip to the east, including Philadelphia, New York and Washington. They will be at home to their many friends after Nov. 1 at the Westminster flats in Fort Wayne. Mr. Wright is the well known son of J. D. Wright of this city.

STATE FEDERATION OF CLUBS TO MEET

Annual Convention Will Be Held in Indianapolis This Month.

LEADERS IN INDIANA

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 12.—The fifth annual convention of the Indiana Federation of Clubs will meet in Indianapolis, October 24, 25 and 26.

The announcement is of deep interest to the 10,000 women of the 250 clubs which comprise it, for it is in these yearly gatherings of live, energetic coworkers that they gain new ideas for the coming year, and the inspiration to carry them out.

The woman's club was in the outset the chosen theme of the would-be humorist. The funny paragraph in regard to the husband whose clothes were ragged and buttonless, who came at the close of a hard day to a dreary, supperless home, or who was left at home to care for the baby while his wife attended lectures on Greek art, or read papers on Ibsen, is too well known to receive more than passing notice.

Some of the club work of the past has doubtless been ill-advised. Many of the papers which required weeks of encyclopaedic research from busy middle-aged housekeepers might well have remained unwritten, but like all other movements that have brought mankind forward, it has been an evolution. This desire for self-betterment, for a broader knowledge, on the part of women who had been denied the benefits of higher education, was necessary as a beginning, though, as wider opportunities were opened for women, the purely literary club was destined to become less, rather than more of a factor in the life of our country.

* * *

But mental culture was only one phase of the development of the club idea. Training in parliamentary procedure and the conduct of business, and most of all, the broader outlook upon life that came as the result of the mingling on common ground of the intelligent, thoughtful women of a community, have gradually wrought a vital change in the character of women's club work.

Self-improvement was the keynote of the early club; the improvement of others is the mission of the club of today, and to accomplish these results organization is necessary—organization of the various clubs of a city, state and national organization.

The Indiana Federation of Clubs has three departments, and almost every club takes an active part in one or the other of them.

The department of conservation has for its work civics, civil service, conservation of natural resources, health, household economics, food sanitation and industrial and social conditions.

The department of education considers art, library extension, literature, music and parent teacher clubs, as well as matter directly concerning the conducting of the federation.

The legislative department assists in drafting bills for reform work in the state legislature and in city councils. They have taken an active part in temperance legislation, in the housing bill to regulate tenements, in the child labor laws, pure food laws, prison reform, establishment of juvenile courts and many other measures.

* * *

The record of individual clubs shows that almost every one has accomplished something for its community.

Most important is the work done to assist in driving the saloon from Indiana towns, but notable work has been accomplished in other lines. Women's clubs have led in the movement for clean streets, for better sidewalks, for better sanitary conditions, a pure water supply, modern school buildings, better schools, pure milk and food supplies, honest measure, public libraries or library extension, art exhibits, music festivals, the beautifying of cemeteries, the planting of trees in parks and public places, the distribution of flower seeds with prizes for well kept lawns and back yards, the opening of playgrounds and vacation schools, establishing rest rooms for working girls, aiding juvenile and probation court work, the sale of Red Cross stamps to aid in stamping out tuberculosis, manual training and domestic science for schools, settlement work among the poor, clubs to enlarge the life of country women and many purely local matters.

The coming meeting of the federation promises to be of unusual interest, besides the inspiration that comes from the meeting of hundreds of capable, energetic women. The Indiana federation has a number of members who have won national recognition.

Mrs. Grace Julian Clark, the president, has had unusual training in being the constant companion and aid of her father, who was statesman, diplomat and scholar. Mrs. Clark presides over this large gathering of women and dominates the whole with her personality.

Mrs. O. P. Kinsey, the first president of the federation, has taken a conspicuous place in the general woman's club movement.

Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon has consecrated her life to securing better homes for the poor, in driving out and preventing slums. She portrays in impassioned language conditions scarcely to be dreamed of in this rich agricultural community, and says to the literary clubs, "Lay aside your Dante, and come and see the real Inferno in your own cities and towns."

* * *

Mrs. O. F. Guildin, of Fort Wayne, is eloquent in behalf of household economics and she inspires her hearers with her own enthusiasm for a more intelligent, scientific grasp of household problems by women.

Mrs. Virgil H. Lockwood makes a stirring appeal for the children who are sent out to battle with life, and to take up its burdens, its dangers and its temptations when they are scarcely out of the cradle.

Mrs. F. T. McWhirter, whose work for temperance is well known, has established parent teacher clubs all over the state and worked to bring about a closer relation and better understanding between parent and child and parent and teacher.

Miss Vida Newsom is leading the work of establishing playgrounds, where the child of the streets is given his chance for health, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

The list of capable women who will be heard in reports of their committees is a long one, and in addition there is a noteworthy list of prominent speakers from other states.

Miss Zone Gale, author of "Friendship Village," and chairman of the civics department of the Wisconsin federation, will give readings of unusual merit. Mrs. Frances Squire Potter will speak of the Drama league.

* * *

Miss Helen Varick Boswell, who investigated social conditions in Panama, will speak on "The Woman's Club as a Molder of Public Opinion."

Mrs. Agnes McGiffert Bailey will tell of the formation of Junior Civic leagues among children, designed to lead to interest in good citizenship.

Health and Beauty Advice

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Mrs. D. T.: No, you are not too old to regain your charming complexion, even though your face is wrinkled and beset with enlarged pores and blackheads. You can clear up and improve your complexion best by using the following greaseless cream-jelly: Mix together two teaspoonfuls glycerine, one ounce almozoin and a half pint cold water. Stir and let stand a few hours before using. This cream-jelly is unequaled for freshening up a dry, rough skin, and accomplishes wonders, eradicating wrinkles, blackheads and freckles. After using this almozoin jelly, only a short time, you should find a big improvement in your complexion.

Rose: You must be a pitiful sight to look upon with so much burdensome fat. Instead of denying yourself the food you crave and undergo tortuous exercises, try this harmless remedy: Get four ounces of parnotis at any druggist's and dissolve it in a pint and a half of hot water. Take a tablespoonful before each meal, and your fat will disappear as if by magic. I receive many letters from those who have tried this simple, inexpensive remedy, telling me what a grand thing it is. It cuts down fat rapidly and leaves the skin smooth and free from wrinkles.

Mrs. E. B.: Ignorance is the only acceptable excuse for a head of poor hair. With but a little care you can have just as nice a head of thick, lustrous hair as your daughter. In the first place never wash your hair with soap, as the alkali in soap destroys the hair, making it brittle, short, streaky and lifeless. Try shampooing about twice a month with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water. The abundant lather cleanses perfectly, rinses easily and dries quickly. You will soon notice your hair getting thicker, longer and taking on that beautiful healthy look so much desired, and you will no longer be bothered with dandruff.

Jean: Any amount of cold creams and the like will not take the pimples and that sallow look from your face. What you need is a good blood purifier and strengthening tonic to put a healthy color into your cheeks. Get an ounce of kardeno and a half pint alcohol at your druggist's; mix these with a half cup sugar, then add enough hot water to make a quart. Take a tablespoonful of this tonic before meals and you will soon regain your lost appetite, sleep soundly at nights and feel energetic. In a few weeks you will have a good healthy color in your face and be feeling fine.

Society Bud: No, there is no way to change the color of your eyes, but you can easily make them clear, sparkling and beautiful, by using in each eye twice daily a few drops of a soothing tonic, made by dissolving an ounce of crystos in a pint of water. This strengthens weak, tired eyes and removes all inflammation. For granulated lids and other eye-troubles, it is an unfailing remedy. Many oculists use this tonic with excellent results, and wearers of glasses find it a big help.

G. A.: Powder will not correct a sallow skin. If you wish to tone up your complexion and give it that much desired smooth, velvety look, use a lotion made with four ounces of spurmax dissolved in a half pint hot water with two teaspoonfuls glycerine added. You will find this lotion inexpensive and a sure remedy for freckles, tan and skin roughness. It takes away that sallow, shiny look and does not show on the face or rub off like powder. I find face powder very harmful to the complexion, as it clogs up the skin pores and causes rough, wrinkled faces.

Fay: Unless the electric needle is handled by an expert, of which there are comparatively few in the country, you cannot permanently rid the skin's surface of that downy growth. A simple, yet effective treatment consits of applying a delatone paste to the offending hairs, and after two or three minutes rub off and wash the skin. You can get powdered delatone at the drug store, an ounce of which costs a dollar, but this cost is trifling, as a little of the delatone and water to make a paste does the work quickly and well.

A. L. C.: Don't worry, for modern science has given us a remedy for hair and scalp troubles that is simply wonderful in its remarkable effects. Get from your druggist a half pint alcohol and one ounce quinzoin; mix together in a bottle, then add a half pint cold water. Although a very simple, inexpensive remedy, this tonic rubbed into the scalp, about twice a week eradicates dandruff, stops itching of the scalp, and checks falling hair quickly. It keeps the scalp in a healthy condition and promotes a vigorous, natural growth of glossy hair.

A WITCHING DINNER.

Each girl was asked to dress in a particular style; one as a trained nurse; another in tennis costume; another in evening dress; one in a simple, fluffy gown and tiny little apron, such as she might wear at home; one in a riding habit, and one in the street clothes of the business woman. They were asked to come a half hour earlier than the men.

When the men arrived they were sent, one by one, into another room, which they found in darkness except for the light from the fire under a huge, black caldron hung from a tripod. A terrible old witch, in tall, black, peaked hat and long, black gown, hovered over the smoking caldron, murmering incantations in a hoarse voice.

The witch bent over the fire, chanted some weird lines in a cracked voice and bade the young man approach and meet his fate. A few mystic waves of her wand, and there stood before him in the dim light of the fire a young girl—for the young doctor, a trained nurse; for the man fond of horses, a girl in riding habit; for the man who loves outdoor sports, the girl in tennis costume. The young man who was fond of society found the girl in evening dress at his side; the one who thought only of business had the business woman for his partner; and for the young man fond of his home was the girl in the little apron.

As each girl appeared, she led her young man quietly out by another door into the dining room. There, by the dim light of candles, they found their places at the table. In the center of the table was another caldron, over which hovered a miniature witch astride a broomstick. Broad, yellow satin ribbons ran from out the caldron to each plate. There they terminated in large bows tied about the steams of champagne glasses containing a purple liquid. It was a beautiful table with its yellow, shaded candles and small vases of yellow flowers.

When all were seated, the hostess announced that the witche's potion before them must be drained to the dregs. This was an agreeable task, for the purple liquid proved to be an excellent fruit punch, colored with grape juice. The hostess then informed them that the witches were favorable, and each had only to wish his dearest wish to have it gratified at once. They were given a moment in which silently to make their wishes. Then each pulled the ribbon at his plate, and out of the caldron came the gratification of his wish. For one pretty girl there was a tiny hat and dress in a box marked "Drecoll, Paris;" for a young man, a little doll bride; for still another young man a bag of tiny gilt coins, the bag marked "$1,000,000." Another girl received an automobile, and another a tiny house labeled "A Good Home."—Woman's Home Companion.

A Home Recipe for Wrinkled, Saggy Skin

(From Beauty and Health.)

The famous saxolite lotion which is recommended by beauty specialists for the removal of wrinkles and for reducing distended pores, can be made at home. Ask your druggist for saxolite in powdered form, 1 oz., and ½ pint witch hazel. Dissolve the powder in the witch hazel and bathe the face, neck and hands in the solution. Results are remarkable, and instantaneous. The skin tightens, and this naturally reduces the wrinkles, as well as creases or folds about the neck, cheeks or hands. The tissue and muscle beneath the skin also become firmer and more solid.

One feels much refreshed and exhilarated after using this truly wonderful preparation. Its continued use for only a short time will make one look five or ten years younger.

Face Peeling Easy—Blonde or Brunette

"The blonde's complexion fades early, because her skin is extraordinarily thin and fine," says Mme. Lina Cavalieri, perhaps the most famous living beauty. "The brunette's, as a rule, is the reverse. The skin is thicker and has a tendency to an oily appearance."

For either the faded blonde's skin or the brunette's oily or sallow complexion, the best remedy is ordinary mercolized wax. Used daily, this will give one an entirely new complexion within about a week's time. The wax gradually absorbs the worn-out surface skin, with all its defects, a little each day, without affecting the delicate underskin in the least. The latter will have the exquisitely beautiful glow of youth—indeed, one may readily lose ten or fifteen years from her age, so far as appearance goes, by a course of this simple treatment. Mercolized wax, securable at any drug store, is applied like cold cream.

MINE EXPLOSION; OBJECT OF LESSON

Unique Demonstration of Rescue Work by Scientific Methods.

TAFT WILL WITNESS

Washington, Oct. 12.—The bureau of mines, assisted by the Red Cross, the United Miners of America and the Pittsburg Coal Operators' association, will give a unique demonstration in mine rescue work at Pittsburg and suburbs on October 26 and 27.

President Taft and 50,000 miners from all sections of the country will witness the demonstrations. They will see a mine explode, and as the smoke blows away they will see rescuers from the bureau of mines rush into the pit with the most approved apparatus and bring out the "entombed" men.

The purpose of the demonstrations is to show the miners the actual dangers that beset them and how they may be avoided, and to impress upon them the value of the methods which the government has devised for their protection and rescue.

Experts of the bureau discount the old theory that the great majority of deaths in mines are directly traceable to the carelessness of the men themselves. They say that while the miners are often to blame, the ignorance of operators and superintendents in the construction and operation of mines is the underlying cause of the terrible death rate in American mines. They say that America is yet in her "teens" in the mining business and has not learned many of the fundamental safeguards that older countries have learned through bitter experience.

The experts cite that before their experiments and investigations few coal operators or miners could be induced to believe that coal dust in a mine could explode without the presence of gas. The bureau of mines has demonstrated that bituminous coal dust alone is a greater menace to miners than fire-damp, which has been regarded always as the greatest danger.

One of the purposes of the forthcoming demonstrations is to prove to the miners that coal dust has been the real cause of the majority of the mysterious explosions in coal mines in the last few years which have been charged to fire-damp or other causes.

On the first day of the demonstration, at Bruceton, twelve miles from Pittsburg, there will be an actual explosion of coal dust in the experimental mine belonging to the government.

The experiments will be made under conditions similar to those existing in many mines today. Black powder, whose use the government strongly opposes, will be used. What is known as the "blownout shot" will be used in the experiment.

A "blownout shot" occurs when the powder shoots out of the hole in which it has been placed and into the mine, instead of performing its function of braking up the coal. It is said to be the cause of a great many explosions, as the flames from the powder ignite the fire-damp or the coal dust.

There will be no one in the mine at the time of the explosion. The shot will be ignited by electricity from the outside.

On the day following, on Forbes Field, the Pittsburg baseball park, with a capacity of more than 30,000, there will be a second explosion of coal dust. The dust will be in a temporary steel gallery erected on the field. A charge of explosives will be fired into the coal dust and the explosion will follow. President Taft will see this demonstration. As the deadly fumes permeate the steel gallery, men from the bureau of mines rescue cars will rush into the smoke and bring out "dummy" men. They will wear the famous oxygen helmets, which allow them to live in the most deadly gases for at least two hours.

As the "rescuers" come out of the gallery with their charges they will be met by the first-aid-to-the-injured corps, who will take the "dummies" in hand and show the thousands of miners how it is possible to relieve the sufferings of injured men.

The bureau has in the various coal fields several fully equipped rescue cars, and the men from these cars, with others who are now employed, by the advice of the government, at some of the larger mines, will contest to see which are the better equipped for first-aid-to-the-injured work.

The rescuers are equipped with oxygen reviving outfits, called pulmotors, which pump the poisonous gases out of the lungs and fill them with oxygen. These pulmotors have brought apparently dead miners to life and resuscitated many who were given up for dead.

The government rescue cars visit all the great mines when not actually engaged in rescue work, and give miners object lessons. As a result of this work volunteer rescue corps have been established at many mines and an impetus has been given to the ambulance and first-aid-to-the-injured work.

These men will all be on hand to show how well they have learned the humanitarian lesson which Uncle Sam has been teaching them since the bureau was established.

Experts from the bureau of mines say that a great number of the deaths charged against mine explosions should be charged against the foolhardiness of the untrained men who went to the rescue of the entombed men; that recent explosions prove that a great percentage of the dead were the rescuers who went into the mines unprepared.

In the Pancoast distaster in Pennsylvania one of the bureau of mines' trained rescuers lost his life while wearing an oxygen helmet. At the time it was said that the helmet was valueless and that no man could live with the assistance of any [illegible] apparatus in such a seething [illegible]

[illegible] bureau people say the man died, not as the result of poisonous gases, primarily, but from overexertion while wearing the helmet.

The bureau of mines' experts believe that the great demonstrations at Bruceton and Pittsburg will be of incalculable value to miners, as well as to operators, as it will show them in a positive manner the actual dangers of their positions and the remarkable results that can be obtained by using scientific methods in saving men when mines explode.

President Taft, Secretary Fisher, of the interior department, and Governor Tener, of Pennsylvania, will address the miners after the demonstrations.

NO ONE HECKLED HER.

Miss Freeman, English Suffragette, Here to Instruct American Women.

(New York Letter.)

They said Miss Elizabeth Freeman was the most militant of all the English suffragettes. Miss Freeman, they said, was positive death on policement. It got so bad that London bobbies would hide under wagons when they saw her coming. She never liked to retire at night without having broken up at least one political meeting. "And she will not be denied," said her American admirers. "When she demands that the speaker of the evening answer her questions, he must either answer her questions or have her dragged out of the hall. Oh, yes, Elizabeth has beeen dragged out of numberless halls. She has been beaten half senseless by the helmets of policemen. Time after time she has been locked up and scolded by magistrates and clubbed by policemen. She is a perfect heroine."

Well, you know yourself that after that sort of an introduction you would expect to see a woman about seven feet tall and wearing harness like a truck horse. Miss Freeman has been brought to New York to instruct the domestic suffragettes how to lam a policeman in the eye impersonally, and how to put a meeting on the bum and yet be polite. We all turned out to attend her first outdoor meeting, being moved thereto by the happy thought that she might bite a piece out of the roundsman. Miss Freeman was slender, blue-eyed, soft-voiced and positively appealing. Her little speech was right to the point, but she didn't illuminate it by arson or invitation to murder. Then she waited for questions and none came. And that little, delicate, dainty bit of femininity, in her frilly blue dress, positively blushed. "I am so disappointed," she said, wistfully. "Over in England someone always heckles us. Isn't there even a drunken man here?"

TWO GENERALS LINING UP CLANS FOR GREAT BATTLE ON SATURDAY

Pen Pictures of the Two Men On Whom the Eyes of the Base Ball World are Trained--To Hold Stage for a Week

New York, Oct. 12.—The world's championship base ball series about to begin marks the climax of interest in the great American game of base ball. The championship contest comes every year, but is ever new in the intense excitement over the crucial series. Last year Philadelphia and Chicago were the centers of this championship storm. the Philadelphia Athletics, of the American league, winning the coveted title.

With the world's pennant still flying over their magnificent base ball home at Shibe park, at Philadelphia, and with another American league flag freshly won, Connie Mack and his Philadelphians are to meet John J. McGraw and his Giants of the National league. It is the second time that these two generals have clashed over the same great issue. In the war of 1905 McGraw won four of the five battles and thereby brought to New York a world's pennant.

Seasoned by six years' more experience in the generalship of their formidable base ball forces, these two base ball leaders now meet again for the championship struggle. Two more divergent types than McGraw and Mack cannot be picked in the base ball world. The contest between the two chiefs may be summed up briefly as follows:

MACK VS. M'GRAW.

MACK.	M'GRAW.
Aged forty-nine.	Aged thirty-eight.
Born in New England.	Born in New York state.
Tall and lanky.	Short and chubby.
Calm and deliberate.	Quick and impulsive.
Leads from the bench.	Always on coaching lines.
Plans battle before game.	Resorts to quick judgment.
Never dons a uniform.	Always in ball togs.
Known as a tactician.	Distinctly a strategist.

And so on, with finer distinctions, the divergence might be traced and when the problem was finally worked out it would be found that about the only point of intersection in their methods is success.

Cornelius McGillicuddy, so named at birth, but rechristened by the fans as "Connie Mack," has been called the "wizard of base ball" because of his skill in developing seemingly inferior talent into the superior player. Since he organized the Philadelphia club eleven years ago he has turned out four champion teams in the American league and has led his men close to the front ranks in the league every season but one. His career has been, perhaps, the most successful of any of the so-called bench managers. Sitting back away from the dust of battle, the cool and crafty chief with pencil and score book in hand, plots out the progress of the engagement and only occasionally amends the orders he gave his men before he sent them into the field.

McGraw, known to fandom as the Napoleonic leader of the "Giants," has won three league pennants for New York and one world series. Since 1903 his team has never finished below third place in the National league. As a big league player he is a famous product of the old Baltimore Orioles of the National league. When the club broke up after the season of 1902 he came to the metropolis as manager of the Giants. He is, and always has been, a typical player and leader of the old fighting school, whose slogan is "Rush in and win."

Whether McGraw can bring his men back to the world-beating class or must let the Mackmen possess the big flag for a second successive season, depends in some part upon some of the veterans who won for him the war of 1905.

The 1911 record of the pitchers who will probably figure in the series are as follows:

GIANT AND ATHLETIC WHO WILL BE DEPENDEND UPON IN THE TITLE SERIES

GIANTS TO LOAF ON UNLUCKLY DAY

May Have Light Exercise to Prepare for the Big Game Saturday.

SOME NEW SIGNALS

New York, Oct. 12.—This is the last day of training for the New York Nationals and after they have engaged the Brooklyn this afternoon for the final contest in the National league season they will rest up for the opening game of the world's series on Saturday with the Philadelphia Americans.

"If Manager McGraw has worked out a campaign for the games," remarked Arthur Devlin at the club house today, "he has not told any of the players. All the planning McGraw will do will be done when the players go to bat and McGraw takes his place on the coaching line. We'll get orders fast enough when the play begins."

Friday will be loafing day for the home club. Most of the players will remain at their homes during the morning and then come out to the park for light exercise.

Reports have it that the New York leader has worked out a new set of signals which will be put into play if it is discovered that the world's champions are able to read the signals now in use by the club.

THREE-I LEAGUE BREAKS OUT.

Annual Trouble is On in Al Tearney's Baseball Organization.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Re-organization of the Three-I baseball league was expected to be perfected at the meeting of members of the league here today. The plan submitted by President Al Tearney and which it was expected would be followed was that the league as it exists be dissolved and a new one organized under its franchise, taking in clubs that would be mutually satisfactory.

Twenty-nine voted for Schulte and he scored 453. Christy Mathewson was second in the National league with .391 and Ed Walsh was next high in the American with a per centage of .547 and he and Eddie Collins both scored more points than the winner in the National league.

CONDENSED NEWS FROM FIELD OF SPORT

Owner A. W. Wagner, of the Terre Haute team, has already booked the Cubs for games on April 3 and 4 of next year.

Silk O'Loughlin says the time is coming when major league games will be started at 2 o'clock so that the ruralities can get home to supper.

Jennings is going to drive his automobile from Detroit to New York and he there in plenty of time for the big series, for he is to write stories about it.

Bert Annis will not have much trouble hunting around for a new name for his Grand Rapids club next year. The Newlyweds will do all right.

Toddy Krop, South Bend outfielder, has gone to Kansas to spend most of the fall and winter with a brother-in-law and he expects to put in his time hunting.

Arthur Irwin, the head scout of the Highlanders, is to be made vice president of the New York club. He will act as scout again next year.

Kid Elberfeldt may be manager of the Atlanta Southern league club next year. Atlanta is dickering with Washington for his services.

Ed Miller, released by Marty Hogan at Lancaster this season has been signed by the St. Louis Browns for a tryout at first base.

The Naps have had the second best season of their career this year. In 1908 they finished up very close to the top and drew just a little better than they have this summer.

Billy Sullivan of the Sox, is driving a new automobile. He has been putting in so much time in it that he has contracted a heavy cold, but says he will be in fine shape before the games with the Cubs.

Gene Curtis, Walter Hartwell, Louie Shettler, Lefty Wilhelm, Teddy Bair and Corbin graduated from the O.-P. league to the Southern last fall, and Bair was the only one to stick. And he was a star.

Vean Gregg, the Naps' star pitcher, who was the sensation of the American league this season has refused to sign the contract for next year which has been offered him by the Cleveland management and may become a hold out for the second time during his baseball career.

Manager George Stovall is making his final appearance as a leader of the Naps in all likelihood. He has done grand work with the team since he fell heir to the job last spring, and is to be congratulated on his record. He will fit into some of the vacant places around the league, without doubt.

NELSON WINS OVER BEECHER.

New York, Oct. 12.—Battling Nelson, who once fought his way to the lightweight championship, won handily last night in a ten-round bout from "Willie" Beecher, a local lightweight, who twice defeated "Knockout" Brown. Nelson's appearance in the arena of the Madison Athletic club was cheered by a large crowd of boxing enthusiasts, for it was the old champion's first in New York.

GRIFFITH MAY TURN MAGNATE.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 12.—Clark Griffith, manager of the Cincinnati National league team, is said to be a possible manager of the Lincoln franchise in the Western league. Donald C. Despain, owner of the franchise, said today he had fixed a price, and while there were several prospective purchasers no deal had been concluded.

SPEED ON BASES AIDED THE VETS

Stole More Sacks Than Any Club in the Central Last Season.

NEWARK TEAM SECOND

CENTRAL LEADERS, 1911.

Batsman — Joe Conolly, Terre Haute, .355.
Hits—Ray Spencer, Dayton, 176.
Runs — Eddie Justice, Fort Wayne, 96, and Enos Kirkpatrick, Dayton, 96.
Two base hits—Cecil Gray, Newark, 37.
Three base hits—Del Young, Fort Wayne and Aristo DeHaven, Dayton, 19.
Home runs—Punch Knoll, Dayton; Bull Durham, Wheeling; Dick Grefe, Evansville; Hans Hadley, Evansville, 11.
Bases on balls—Frank Farrell, Zanesville, 98.
Sacrifice hits—Elmer Benson, Dayton, and Sandy Murray, Newark, 45.
Stolen bases — Jack Pendry, Newark, 50.

Speed on the bases counted largely in the victory won by Dayton in the Central league as the official records show that the club stole 205 bases as against 158 for Fort Wayne. Evansville ran the bases in good shape and stole nearly as many as the Vets, but the club was weak in the pitching and batting departments and work on the paths did not bring results.

Dayton was entitled to the pennant as its club excelled in all departments of the game. The men made more hits, scored more runs, stole more bases and did everything else just a little better than any of it rivals in the race.

Roy Keener led the Fort Wayne batsmen, with Del Young a close second and Blount third. Bill Clancy missed the .300 mark by one point.

Young got the most hits, but Eddie Justice scored more runs than any other Fort Wayne player and more than any man in the league with the exception of Enos Kirkpatrick, of Dayton, with whom he is tied.

Justice ran Young a close race for the two-base hit record, due in a great measure to the speed he displayed on the paths. Young ripped off 26 and Justice landed 22. Big Delmer Dewaine was among the leaders in the matter of three-base raps and he got nine home runs, within two of the leaders in this department.

Harden was second to Wacker among the Fort Wayne pitchers and tail-end honors fell to Pfeffer, whose batting did not reach the .200 mark.

Carl Vandagrift's work surprised the patrons of the game as he was generally regarded as a weak member with the stick, but the returns show he hit .264, which is great for an infielder.

Blount was at the top of the local base stealers, picking off twenty-nine and Vandagrift came next with twenty-four, beating Justice by one. Bill Bailey fell down on his hitting, going back from the season before.

COLUMBUS DAY IS OBSERVED

Some Doubt of Its Legal Status in State is Admitted.

CHICAGO'S BIG FETE

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 12.—Whether or not today, Discovery day, is a legal holiday, is a question, and banks and banks and private business did not close their doors, but in most cities the police departments ordered saloons not to open. In Indianapolis the superintendent of police said "It was not for him to construe the law," and he ordered the saloons closed. In setting aside a day in honor of Christopher Columbus, the last legislature amended an act of 1905, designating holidays, and did not take into consideration an amendment by the legislature of 1907. Attorney General Honan, in an unofficial opinion, has cast doubt on the legality of Discovery day as a holiday.

All through the state celebrations were held today, or will be tonight, most of them under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

Offices in the state house were open until 10 o'clock, when Governor Marshall issued a norder that they should be closed for the day. The governor said that the legislative enactment declaring Discovery day a holiday had not been officially declared invalid.

BIG FETE IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—With elaborate pageants on land and water Chicago today celebrated Columbus day.

Members of the Knights of Columbus impersonating Columbus, King Ferdinand, Queen Isabella and other characters of the period, boarded three Spanish caravels at Jackson park and sailed to Grant park, where the party was welcomed by Mayor Harrison and other officials and the scenes marking the discovery of America were re-enacted with dignified ceremony. A reception was tendered to the actors in the historical drama, which was attended by thousands.

Solemn high mass was celebrated at the Holy Name Cathedral in honor of the event, which was followed by a parade of Italian organizations in historical costumes with floats and allegorical reproductions of famous scenes in the life of Columbus.

The day's celebration was concluded with a number of banquets.

WAS BURNED TO DEATH.

Tecumseh Edsall, Formerly of Fort Wayne, Meets Horrible Death.

Tecumseh Edsall, son of J. N. Edsall, of 2032 Oliver street, formerly of this city, who was employed as assistant engineer in a New York hotel, was burned to death Tuesday night as the result of an accident, which occurred while he was repairing a dynamo. He received a shock from the electric current, and was thrown on his back, and an oil torch, which he was holding in his hand, set fire to his clothing.

Mr. Edsall received word of the death of his son Wednesday, but it was not until this morning that he received particulars.

The deceased was forty-five years of age, and left Fort Wayne about seventeen years ago. His widow survives him. The body will be brought to Fort Wayne for funeral services and interment, arriving at 2 o'clock Saturday morning.

TAKING THE MACHINES OUT.

Orders of the Chief Are Being Obeyed Without Question.

Orders issued by the chief of police against the new nickel slot machines that were put in under the pretext that they were not gambling devices because they returned a piece of chewing gum for each five-cent piece risked, are being generally obeyed.

None of those who had put the machines in their places of business made any objection to removing them and if any more appear the men who display them will be arrested.

DISORDERS FRET CONSTANTINOPLE

Anti-Young Turk Feeling Threatening Grave Outbreak.

NO ARMISTICE YET

London, Oct. 12.—A news dispatch from Constantinople forwarded by way of the Bulgarian frontier to avoid the Turkish censor today says that the situation in the Turkish capital is grave. It is feared that when parliament meets Saturday an open conflict will take place between the committee of union and progress and the reactionary party. The masses are greatly excited against the Young Turk committee and the best men refuse to join the government while the committee attempts to dominate it.

Paris, Oct. 12.—The French foreign office has no confirmation today of the published statement that Italy and Turkey were on the point of arranging an armistice. On the contrary the officials regarded the report premature under existing circumstances. Neither power has indicated to France the conditions under which an offer of mediation could be made.

HARVARD EAGER TO LEARN.

Young Englishman Who Came to This Country Is Ignorant of Football.

(Boston Evening Transcript.)

Lionel De Jersey Harvard, of London, arrived in Boston on the Leyland line steamship Canadian, from Liverpool. He is to enter the freshman class of Harvard and left for his rooms at Weld Hall as soon as his baggage was examined. Harvard is an interesting boy of 18 years. He is not a direct descendant of the founder of the university, but is presumably descended from Thomas, second cousin of John Harvard.

The father of Lionel is a business man of London and early determined to send his son to the college bearing the family name. Harvard was greeted at the dock by Louis A. Holman, who met the family while in England several months ago, and Lewis J. Catherton, of Needham, who is to room with the young Englishman.

Harvard was embarrassed, when met at quarantine by press representatives, to learn that he had acquired notoriety and pleaded that he be given little notice. He stands five feet, eleven inches, and weighs, as he expresses it, "ten stone three." When asked of his athletic prowess he replied that he "played tennis some" and that he could also play soccer. He said that he knew nothing of baseball or football, but was eager to learn the games.

THE STAGE IS ALWAYS SLIPPING.

The fact that many sober-minded persons, from William Winter down to those of less distinction, loudly condemn the modern stage should cause no uneasiness to those familiar with the history of dramatic criticism. For in almost every age it has been the custom for serious folk to denounce the work done by their contemporaries—to describe it and the public taste as degenerate and to contrast both with some mythical former time, when plays were all noble and audiences discriminating. I suppose the world's high water mark in dramatic production was about the year 1607, when Shakespeare had produced his masterpieces of tragedy and his giant contemporaries were in full activity. Yet, in that very year, in his preface to "Volpone," Ben Johnson affirmed that it was heard on all sides "that now, especially in dramatick, or (as they terme it) stage-poetrie, nothing but ribaldry, profanation, blasphemy, all license of offence to God, and man, is practiced."—William Lyon Phelps, in the Yale Review.

WOMEN MAY WIN AFTER ALL.

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—If the present ratio of gain is kept up woman suffrage will be shown to have carried at Tuesday's election by a safe majority. Belated returns this morning from 68 precincts reduced the majority against suffrage to 350.

P. H. MALONE IS ABLE TO SIT UP

Victim of Flyer Wreck Will Soon Leave the Hospital.

TALK MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN HERE

Local Y. M. C. A. Will Make Effort to Increase the Roll.

Patrick E. Malone, the engineer who was at the throttle of the front engine pulling the Pennsylvania Special train, the eighteen hour Chicago-New York flyer, when it was wrecked at Swinney park Sunday, August 13, is now able to sit for an hour or two each day and expects to be able to leave the Lutheran hospital in a week or two and go to his home on South Calhoun street. Engineer Malone's recovery is somewhat remarkable, as he was very badly injured and for some time after the accident was not expected to recover. He lost one of his hands and had one of his legs badly fractured.

TO LAUNCH CAMPAIGN.

Y. M. C. A. Workers to Get Out After Members.

Secretary W. S. Whitbeck, of the Railroad Y. M. C. A., has returned from the meeting at Bradford, Ohio, full of enthusiasm in association work and with members of the board and other interested people, will endeavor to launch one of the greatest membership campaigns ever inaugurated in Fort Wayne. The meeting at Bradford was a system conference of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. for the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg and delegates present represented associations at Conway, Allegheny, Cleveland, Crestline, Chicago, Fort Wayne, Logansport, Bradford, Columbus and elsewhere in Ohio and Indiana. The principal topic was a membership campaign by the associations on the Pennsylvania lines. The work will be carried on in conjunction with a general movement among North American associations, in the effort to increase the membership 1,000,000 within a certain period. In his report to the board of management last Monday, Secretary Whitbeck stated that 7,914 men used the bath house department and 1,907 patrons were accommodated at the library. In its report of Monday evening's meeting Tuesday the Sentinel unintentionally omitted the name of H. A. Philley as one of the board members.

PITTSBURG MAYOR

Threatens to Stop Pennsylvania Trains on Grade Crossings.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 12.—Mayor William A. Magee and the Pennsylvania Railroad company are at war over grade crossings, and the city executive threatens to bring the company to time, even if he is obliged to stop every train at certain dangerous crossings.

The company has refused to allow its signal men to signal public traffic and vehicles. Their attention must be directed to trains and safety gates only. Ordinances are being unearthed which oblige the company to warn all kinds of traffic at these intersections by signals. The company contends that it is not liable for the handling of such traffic.

Unless something is done within forty-eight hours the mayor will notify the police department to take the drastic course allowed by law—that of halting every train.

HAD TOES CRUSHED.

Apostel Vassel Has Steel Rail to Fall Upon Him.

Apostel Vassel, a foreign laborer employed in track work under General Foreman Daniel O'Leary, of the Pennsylvania, had the toes of one foot crushed this morning while handling steel rails near the station. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, where the company's surgeons are looking after his wounds. Elex Moyer, a shop laborer, is also at the hospital as a result of puncturing one of his feet with a nail yesterday.

WAGE INCREASE

And Changed Working Conditions Demanded by Q. and C. Enginemen.

A committee, representing the enginemen of the Queen and Crescent Route, has presented demands for an adjustment of the wage contract. They want an increase in pay and certain changes in the working conditions. It is expected that the matters involved will be settled in the immediate future, as the road and the men are not far apart on their views. The percentage of wage increase will be on a sliding scale, according to the length of service.

MAKING ITS LAST TRIP.

Engine No. 5075, which belongs to the Pennsylvania railroad, and which has figured in an important way in the tests that have been in progress onthe Western division of the Pennsylvania lines, is out on its last trip today. Tomorrow or the following day it will leave for Altoona, in charge of C. H. Andrus, the general locomotive inspector for the Pennsylvania railroad, who has been conducting the tests. Engine 5075 is a specially constructed locomotive, combining the best features of the standard locomotives. It has what is termed an H-8 boiler, which has a combustion chamber between the fire box proper and the flues. This is placed upon the frame and "wheel base" of the Atlantic type locomotive, with piston valves and Walschaert gear valve motion.

FELL OFF WHEEL.

Pennsylvania Shopman Koch Victim of Accident.

While en route from the Pennsylvania shops, where he is employed as a painter, to his home last night, W. J. Koch was thrown from his bicycle and sustained severe bruises and sprains to one of his legs, rendering him a temporary cripple. He will not be able to work for some days.

Don't Pull Out The Gray Hairs

A Few Applications of a Simple Remedy Will Bring Back the Natural Color.

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place" is an old saying, which is, to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good, reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "sage tea" which our grandparents used. The best preparation of this kind is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur, scientifically compounded with later discovered hair tonics and stimulants, the whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It refreshes dry, parched hair, removes dandruff and gradually restores faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Don't delay another minute. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur at once and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in your hair.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

FOND DU LAC WILL HAVE PRESIDENT

would like to know definitely the time allotted to Fond Du Lac. It will require two and a half hours to carry out the program and arrangements."

To this the secretary to the president replied:

"Telegram received. Railroad had given only ten minutes to Appleton, one hour and forty minutes net to Oshkosh and two and a half hours to Fond Du Lac. This was an error. Appleton was to have had one hour and ten minutes. It will be necessary to revise the program and deal fairly with Appleton."

Cuts Out Whole Affair.

This message must have caused some excitement in Fond Du Lac, for promptly this answer was sent from Mayor Wolff and the "chairman of all committees:"

"As all arrangements had been made to cover the president's visit to Fond Du Lac for two and a half hours, as per original program, disappointing, all arrangements have been abandoned. Give all your time to Oshkosk and Appleton."

As soon as this action of the mayor and the committees was made public, Postmaster George Watson, of Fond Du Lac, wired to Mr. Hilles as follows:

"Kindly give the people of Fond Du Lac an opportunity to express their loyalty to the president in accordance with his plans and convenience. The people wish to greet him and to hear him."

E. M. Given, president of the Business Men's association, also sent the following telegram to Secretary Hilles:

"The citizens of Fond Du Lac urge that there be no change in the program of the president regarding his visit to this city. Everything will be arranged for his comfort and pleasure."

Comfort Offered to Taft.

Meantime there came a message from Wm. Kohl, chairman of the republican committee of Dodge county, Wisconsin, urging the president to give his time to Mayville in that county if Fond Du Lac did not want him. Dodge county did. Also in the meantime Mr. Taft had made up his mind to go to Fond Du Lac, reception committee or no reception committee. The telegram from Mr. Hilles, which brought about the final solution was addressed to Postmaster Watson and read:

"Your telegram received. One difficulty that might be encountered in Fond Du Lack in consequence of telegram from the mayor, is that of inadequate police protection to the crowds. If the city officials oppose a meeting there what police protection would be guaranteed as a safeguard against accidents?"

All is Lovely Now.

On yesterday came the following, signed by the mayor of Fond Du Lac and the chairman of all the committees:

"The mayor and citizens of Fond Du Lac are anxious to entertain the president and his party on the 26th of October. The misunderstanding as to time assigned to Fond Du Lac led to hasty action in telegram cancelling visit by president. The city of Fond Du Lac extends its good wishes to the president and desires to assure him that he will receive a hearty welcome when he arrives in our city. We stand ready to carry out the program in accordance with the time at your disposal."

In the following telegram from Secretary Hilles to Mayor Wolff the final chapter was written:

"The president will be pleased to comply with the wishes of the committees."

And Fond Du Lac will entertain Mr. Taft for an hour and a half on the afternoon of Thursday, Oct. 26.

KILLS THE DANDRUFF GERM

Stops Falling Hair—Others Imitate and Make Similar Claims, but the Genuine and Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer is Newbro's Herpicide.

The discovery of the dandruff germ as the cause of all hair troubles is not a recent event. Prof. Unna gave the germ theory to the world in 1887 and two years later Sabouraud by his experiments with a rabbit proved beyond a doubt the actual existence of this germ.

On the heels of this establishment of the germ theory came the discovery of Newbro's Herpicide. This was the first and only remedy for the destruction of the dandruff germ.

There have been other preparations alleged to kill this germ, stop falling hair and itching of the scalp. But Newbro's Herpicide really does these things. For this reason it has long been known as the original remedy and the only one that is genuine.

Don't be fooled by preparations which are trading upon the marvelous success of Herpicide. Remember you take no chances with Newbro's Herpicide. It is absolutely guaranteed.

WANTED HER BOY AND LANDED HIM

Had Her Husband Arrested to Accomplish It But is Satisfied.

WEIMERS IN COURT

When Arthur Weimer and his wife had a little tilt at their home, 2131 Wells street, early yesterday morning, the male end of the sketch left and took with him their boy and announced at the same time that the wife and mother would never see either again.

Mrs. Weimer had some different ideas on the subject and as soon as she could gather her Sunday clothes and get into them she treked for the prosecutor's office and secured a warrant for hubby, charging him with wife desertion.

When he was arraigned in the city court today there was no evidence on which to convict him but the mother had secured her baby and she didn't seem to care if she had set the legal machinery going and kept it in motion until the little fellow had been restored to her.

Judge Mungovan said the Weimers are trying to live with too many people in one house. There are the wife's parents, one sister and an unattached aunt and this seems to be the root of all the trouble. Both are young, the husband is temperate and works hard and the wife helps out and the judge said he could not see for the life of him why they didn't take their baby and go home and live like they ought to.

Herman Paxton, Mentone, Ind., dealer in skunk, muskrat and other hides and who also takes a flyer in other things now and then, came here to look over the apple market but he devoted too much attention to brewed hops and distilled corn and rye and he had to pay $1 and costs for public intoxication.

Maumee Valley Land company, Fort Wayne; capital stock, $200,000; bond dealers; directors, C. E. Hyman, L. C. Poland, I. L. Graham, H. H. Rouse and Henry Hyman.

Fort Wayne Tile company, Fort Wayne; capital stock, $7,000; to manufacture hollow clay ware; directors, Paul Koehler, Frank Kintz, J. H. Koehler, William Wirtfeld and Henry Braun.

DOUBLES CAPITAL STOCK.

The Ideal Auto company, with a factory on High street, has just voted to increase its capital stock from $50,000 to $100,000. The old board of directors, including George B. Hall, M. J. Blitz, F. K. Safford, C. J. Scheiman, B. Paul Mossman and T. A. Sperry, were all re-elected and it was determined to add four members to the board. Outlook for the company is especially bright, and stockholders will have a luncheon, smoker and business session at the Commercial club Saturday evening.

HERE ARRANGING FOR CONVENTION

C. D. Boyd Will Pilot Indianapolis Visitors to Convention.

PLANS FOR BANQUET

Clarence D. Boyd, a director of the Indianapolis Commercial club, was in Fort Wayne today making advance preparations for the coming of the big Indianapolis delegation to the convention of Indiana Federated Commercial clubs in this city on October 18 and 19.

Mr. Boyd, after a conference with Secretary C. L. Biederwolf, stated that the Indianapolis party will come in a special interurban car, arriving in the city at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, in time to participate in the banquet. On the incoming trip it is the intention to make short stops at Muncie, Anderson, Hartford City and Bluffton. Business men in the party will spend the following morning among their Fort Wayne friends, and on the return trip stops will be made at Huntington, Wabash, Peru, Kokomo and Noblesville. Members of Indianapolis Trade association, who made a "booster" trip to Fort Wayne some time ago, have been invited to go on a "follow up" trip with the Commercial club. Winfield Miller and Charles A. Bookwalter will be the spokesmen for the various towns visited.

Planning Big Banquet.

Local committees were in session last evening preparing for the big banquet on Wednesday evening. It was decided to serve the banquet in the Commercial club building, where the entire convention program will be held. Tickets for the banquet are $1.00 each.

Since the convention a year ago commercial clubs at Valparaiso, Logansport, Peru, Huntington and Michigan City have affiliated with the federation.

DECATUR NEWS.

Decatur, Ind., Oct. 12.—Mayor Teeple this morning narrowly escaped serious injury at his home in this city when he fell a distance of five or six feet from the top of a large fruit tree he was trimming. He was ten or twelve feet from the ground in the tree when he slipped and fell, but caught in the fork of some limbs when about half way to the ground. His hip was badly bruised, but no further injuries were received and he was able to go to his office as usual, although lame. Had he fallen to the ground he would doubtless have been seriously injured.

Enthusiasm continues to mark the course of the sugar beet proposition and the farmers of this vicinity and business men of Decatur are working hand in hand and shoulder to shoulder in the accomplishment of what is the ambitions of both. The benefits to be derived are mutual and the realization of this fact has stirred both as they have never been stirred before. The beet sugar industry established in Decatur means vast advantages to all. The extent to which the farmers have been enthused was demonstrated last evening at the Bleeke school house in Union township. A number of business men from this city, accompanied by representatives of the sugar factory met the farmers of that vicinity and discussed with them the beet proposition. No less than 200 farmers from Union township were present to hear the discussion and to learn what they could about the industry of beet growing, and that they were fully satisfied was evidenced by the large acreage subscribed. This evening a similar meeting will be held at Pleasant Mills in St. Mary's township and present indications point to a crowd larger than last evening. The acreage already assured is eminently satisfactory to all concerned and is larger than the average secured in the same time in other localities where beet factories have been established. That the required acreage will be secured there is not a single doubt. In addition to the work done in securing acreage the finance committee is busy raising the necessary funds to purchase the site and fulfill the other conditions required. This work was begun this morning and the committee has been meeting with unlooked for success. The business men of the city are working together as one man and in the union thus established is a strength that without a single doubt, will accomplish the purpose of their effort.

The band of gypsies who were operating north of the city yesterday and for whose arrest warrants were issued by Squire Stone, had departed when the officers reached the scene of their operations. No effort to follow and catch them was made and they were allowed to go their way. The main purpose of the affidavits had been accomplished in their departure and they were allowed to go in peace.

MRS. ELLIOTT IS TREASURER.

Fort Wayne Woman Elected by Indiana State Nurses' Association.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 12.—The Indiana State Nurses' association yesterday elected officers as follows: Dr. Maude McConnell Sullivan, president; Miss Francis Ott, Morocco, and Miss Edith Baynes, vice presidents; Miss Edith Henderson, Richmond, secretary, and Mrs. M. S. Elliott, Fort Wayne, treasurer.

Governor Marshall, who was one of the speakers at the convention, was warmly applauded. Unstinted praise for the nurses and their profession was given by the governor, who complimented his audience on the fact that nursing had become a recognized profession. He advocated the idea of preventive nursing and preventive medicine. The time might come in America, he thought, when the Chinese system of medicine would be adopted. In China, he said, a physician is paid for keeping a man well, and when the patient gets sick the physician must doctor him for nothing. Governor Marshall also thought the Chinese had a striking system in taking appeals in legal cases. If a lower court is reversed by a supreme tribunal, he said, the head of the lower court is cut off, but if the decision of the lower court is sustained, the man who took the appeal gets his head cut off.

Physicians are no more responsible than the nurses for the well-being of the community, the governor said. "If I had to take my choice between a good doctor and a good nurse, I would take a good nurse," he said.

I guarantee before you have worn a Malloy hat one week your friends will compliment you on your good looks.

SMITH'S EFFORTS ARE APPRECIATED

Young Aviator Presented With Purse Following Flight Wednesday.

COVERS SEVEN MILES

In the presence of a large crowd of spectators, who assembled at the old golf grounds, Art Smith, the young aviator, made a second successful flight Wednesday afternoon, remaining in the air nine minutes and covering a distance of about seven miles.

Following Smith's successful flight to New Haven and return Tuesday afternoon, the announcement that he would make another flight Wednesday drew a crowd to the golf grounds in the morning, but as Smith was engaged in transacting business down town, no flight was made. The crowd assembled early in the afternoon again, but Smith did not take his machine from the tent until 4 o'clock. He made the ascent at about 4:15 o'clock, rising a hundred and fifty feet in the air and soaring southeast for about a mile and a half. He then circled back and headed towards Lakeside and described several more circles before he made his landing back at the starting point. During the flight Smith attained an altitude of over two hundred feet and his skillful handling of the machine caused the spectators to marvel at the control exhibited.

To show their appreciation of Smith's efforts a hat was passed following the flight and Smith was presented with the purse, which amounted to $20. In accepting the purse Smith remarked that it was the first pay day for him since he had undertaken to build the machine.

Smith is now making arrangements to give an exhibition flight at the Driving park in the near future and from all appearances the exhibition will draw a large attendance, as considerable interest is being taken in the efforts of the young aviator, who claims the distinction of being Fort Wayne's first birdman.

James S. Smith, the father of young Smith, has been on a vacation trip to Lake James for the past two weeks and so missed being present at the triumph of his son. Despite the repeated mishaps suffered by Smith his father and mother's faith in his ability to make good has never wavered. Mr. Smith is expected to return home either Friday or Saturday and his son is eagerly awaiting his coming.

ANTHONY TO BE HEADQUARTERS

When National Waterways Commission Comes to Fort Wayne.

TOLEDO IS PREPARING

The Anthony hotel has been selected as headquarters for the national waterways commission when it comes to Fort Wayne on November 2 for its public hearing upon the proposal to construct a barge canal from Toledo to Lake Michigan by way of the Maumee river and Fort Wayne. It is expected that the hearing will be conducted in the banquet room at the hotel, though this has not yet been definitely decided upon.

Local officials of the Waterways association say that in all probability no attempt will be made to banquet the visitors. They have just been advised that the city of Toledo is arranging to hold a big canal gathering and show its interest in the canal proposition when the members of the commission reach that city on Nov. 1.

The party is expected to include Senator Burton, of Ohio, the chairman; Senator J. H. Gallinger, of New Hampshire; Senator Samuel H. Piles, of Washington; Senator William Alden Smith, of Michigan; Senator F. M. Simmons, of North Carolina; Senator James P. Clark, of Arkansas, and Senator Lorimer, of Illinois, and Representatives D. S. Alexander, of New York; Frederick K. Stevens, of Minnesota; Irving P. Wagner, of Pennsylvania; Steven M. Sparkman, of Florida, and John A. Moon, of Tennessee.

Congressman Alexander was a resident of Fort Wayne years ago, when he was one of the publishers of the Gazette.

TOWNHIP RECORDS BURN.

Home of St. Joseph's Township Trustee Completely Destroyed by Fire.

Fire which broke out shortly after 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon completely destroyed the residence of Michael Costello, trustee of St. Joseph's township, together with its contents and among other losses was that of the township records, which were burned to ashes. Mr. Costello was in Leo at the time his home burned and Mrs. Costello was alone in the house. Following the discovery of the flames neighbors arrived to lend their assistance, but the fire was beyond control. The fire is thought to have had its origin from the kitchen stove.

The loss is estimated at $2,000 with insurance of $525 in the Farmers' Mutual of Allen county.

STRIKERS GETTING THEIR PAY.

Illinois Central is Settling With Employes Now Out.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—The 4,000 striking shopmen formerly employed at the Burnside shops of the Illinois Central railroad, were paid their wages for September today.

The pay roll aggregated $200,000 and a large force of clerks was busy a greater part of the day disbursing the checks. The strikers were paid from four booths which previously had been built in the fence surrounding the plant. A majority of the men cashed their pay checks in neighboring saloons and a heavy police guard was on duty to prevent trouble.

SPECIAL OFFER UNTIL OCT. 15th

CURES AT YOUR OWN PRICE—Every person who calls on me before Oct. 15th, will not only receive a careful and thorough examination FREE OF CHARGE, but absolutely no fee will be charged during that time other than you yourself are willing to pay.

This is of special importance to every person who realizes the value of original methods. What I have claimed in reference to the influence of any Pelvic or Rectal Disease on the Sympathetic Nervous System and all reflex conditions is now the accepted theory of the leading scientists.

No man can afford to undertake his daily work without being fully equipped mentally and physically.

A well beggar has a better time of it any day than a sick king.

I have for fourteen years made a special study of these CHRONIC conditions and have perfected methods that will positively cure. Do not be deceived or be misled into thinking you can afford to prolong your suffering and misery, for what are a few dollars to be compared with health?

I am making this special offer until Oct. 15th to enable the thousands of sufferers to regain their health and to prove to you that the best is always the cheapest, and my terms are always reasonable considering the fact that when I accept a case I CURE.

I know that success and happiness depend on body and brain vitality. The lack of force is always due to functional decline, to a diseased condition of one or more of the organs of the body, or to a devitalized nervous system. The man who is not right physically and mentally and neglects himself not only limits his future prospects, but is using up the physical capital he has already possessed.

Every man who does less than he should do at his desk, in the shop or on the farm is weak in some way. I have found that the man who cannot accomplish all he expects or hopes for is often the silent sufferer from some hidden disease that affects one or more of the important nerve centers of the body.

These neglected or unknown conditions are usually diseases of the pelvic organs, which reflexly act on the organs of digestion, of elimination and the nervous system, which in turn has its influence on the brain. I have made a special study of the nervous system and have perfected methods that will CURE Pelvic Diseases. I will give you a searching and thorough examination and explain to you the true nature of your trouble.

EXAMINATION—My facilities for examination are unexcelled. I learn the exact condition of the rectum, the bladder and every organ of the genito-urinary system. This in itself is of the highest importance, inasmuch as a broken down nervous system and many or most of the troubles of the stomach, liver and kidneys, etc., are reflex and are the direct results of some pelvic lesion or disease.

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN and nearly all nervous diseases are the direct results of chronic or imperfectly treated Pelvic Diseases, such as Varicocele, Piles, Fistula, Stricture, etc. I not only remove the cause, but my many years of experience in the treatment of nervous and pelvic diseases enable me by my special methods to revitalize the entire nervous system and to restore to perfect health nearly all sufferers from nervous breakdown and vital weakness.

BLOOD POISON—I use only the most advanced methods in the treatment of blood poison and kindred diseases.

PROSTATIC ENLARGEMENT—This may result from a number of causes. The constant jarring and vibration of trains and trolley cars are a very potent cause. Bicycle riding and the use of riding implements on the farm are factors in producing this disease. In fact the causes are so many and varied that fully 75 per cent. of all male adults are afflicted to a greater or lesser extent by this disease. The disease is so little understood, and as one of the principal symptoms is a pain in the back, it is usually called kidney trouble and treated with local applications or sedatives which can do no possible good whatever. I reduce the enlargement and have been able to cure about 90 per cent of all cases.

VARICOCELE—I cure Varicocele in a few days' or weeks' time without the use of the knife.

STRICTURE—I readily remove Stricture by my dissolvent method without the use of instruments.

RUPTURE, PILES, FISTULA, ETC., cured without detention from business and without the use of the knife.

If you live out of town write or write on what train you will arrive and I will arrange my engagements so that I can see you at once.

HERE IS A REAL DYSPEPSIA CURE

No Indigestion, Gas, Sourness or Headache Five Minutes Later.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia or out-of-order Stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapepsin.

If your Stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a re-enforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak Stomachs should take a little Diapepsin occasionally, and there will be no more Indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach or Belching of undigested food, Headaches, Dizziness or Sick Stomach, and, besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved in five minutes after taking a little Diapepsin.

Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living. adv

Attorney General Approves Parole of Edward N. Detzer.

Edward N. Detzer, former teller of the First National bank in this city, and sentenced to five years in the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth for embezzlement of funds of the bank, will be released on parole within a few days, after having served twenty-three months of his term.

Congressman Cline has received a telegram from Washington advising him that the attorney general has approved the finding of the board of pardons upon the application for the parole. This certificate of approval has been mailed to the warden of the prison, and upon its receipt Detzer will be given his freedom. Under the law it was necessary for Detzer to serve one-third of his sentence before he became eligible to parole. This fraction of the time expired August 1, and since that date friends have been active in their efforts to secure his release.

HE WAS STILL WAITING.

Tragedy In a Parlor Learned by Tearing Down House.

THEY were tearing down the old house to make room for a more modern structure. The brows of the sturdy workmen were beaded with honest sweat. Their strong muscles were taxed to the utmost as the ponderous timbers one by one were loosened. At last they reached the interior and with heavy steps entered the once magnificent parlor. Here they paused, for the sight that met their eyes was indeed one of great strangeness.

Seated upon the once gorgeous lounge, with his thin, haggard face fixed intently upon a door just opposite, was a man. But such a man! His face was the color of the driven snow and lean even to the bones. His long, emaciated hands locked and interlocked with twitching nervousness. His evening clothes were moth eaten and saturated with dust, his linen begrimed and unsightly, while his shoes were cracked and warped in many places.

In his luxurious growth of auburn hair spiders of divers kinds had woven their dainty webs of lace. On his right shoulder an enormous cocoon had just burst, and from it there fluttered a beautiful moth with great silvery wings. It was indeed a wondrous picture.

Slowly the laborers approached with awe stricken faces, while they conversed among themselves in stilled whispers. At last one of them put forth his right hand and touched the man's shoulder, close beside the beautiful moth. "What is it?" asked the son of toil. "Why are you here?"

The occupant of the lounge moved his head slowly and with great effort. He did not depart from his fixed gaze on the door just opposite. His eyes, feverish and filled with a suppressed expectancy, did not flicker. "That's all right, boys," he said in a thin, dry voice. "I am just waiting—that's all. She sent word that she would be down in a minute."—Puck.

Taking No Chances.

A friend who was by way of becoming a sociologist went to Cleveland to look over that city's model city farm and infirmary, and Fred C. Kelly took him out there.

They were shown all over the place, including the insane ward. Just as they were leaving that ward a man carrying a big razor in his hand came out of a door and started toward him. Both Kelly and his friend ran.

They stopped when they reached the office, panting, and the superintendent, who is a fat man, came lumbering after them.

"What's the matter with you?" asked the superintendent.

"Did he cut anybody's throat?" chorused Kelly and his friend.

"Who?"

"That big patient with the razor."

"Oh," said the superintendent, "that was just an attendant who had been shaving some of the inmates. Come on back."

"Not on your life!" said Kelly. "He may only be imagining that he's an attendant."—Saturday Evening Post.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

The estimate should have been based on 63 stands, as the remaining 34 are made up of the 10 on Barr street and the 24 on Barr street north of Main, for the use of which the city under the terms of the market ordinance cannot collect. On the basis the revenue from the stands at the rate suggested by the court would be as follows:

63 stands at 10 cents per day for 71 days ..... $ 447 30
112 stands at $12.00 per year.... 1,344 00

Making a total possible revenue from entire market $1,791 30

Taking the figures as submitted by the court with the deduction of the 34 stands, the revenue would be $1,791.30, and the expenditures $1,494.00, leaving a margin of $297.37 to provide for all emergencies. If, as it is now rumored, the city should be enjoined from using that space between Berry and Main streets, the city would then have 40 less stands to rent, which at 10 cents a day for 71 days, would decrease the revenues of the market $284.00 and leave a margin of $13.30. The revenues instead of being $1,791.30, would be $284.00 less, or $1,507.30, which, taking the city's estimate of expenditures of $2,486.90, would leave a deficit of $979.60, or with the 40 stands between Berry and Main streets figured in a deficit of $695.60. I believe from these figures you will be able to gather the contention of the city and also the idea of the court. I state further that the rule of law covering this matter, as I understand it, is that the city is permitted a revenue sufficient to defray all of the expenses of the operation of the market, including incidental expenses. The question, of course, that is not absolutely certain, is just what expenses are to be considered as sufficient and necessary to the operation of the market. It must also be understood that there is no requirement that the revenue should be exactly the same as the expenditures or even nearly so, as it has been held by the supreme court of this state that the court will not interfere in the matter of a rate charged by the city unless there has been a manifest abuse of the power.

In order to bring to your attention the importance of passing a temporary ordinance at this meeting of your body until you have time to give the matter a full consideration when a permanent one can be passed, I will call your attention to the fact that the decree of the court as it now stands prevents us from collecting anything at all from the marketers, and as a consequence we are deprived of a revenue that we ought to be receiving. If an ordinance is not passed at this meeting for the reason last stated one should be passed as soon as convenient.

Respectfully submitted.
H. G. HOGAN,
City Attorney.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 10, 1911.

To the Common Council.

Gentlemen: We, your committee on education, to whom was referred the financial report of the treasurer of the trustees of the school city of Fort Wayne, beg leave to report that we have carefully examined the same and found it correct.

Respectfully yours,
ALLEN HAMILTON,
P. M. BRAUN,
B. VAN SWERINGEN.

Concurred in.

MAJORITY REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON CONTRACTS AND FRANCHISES.

To the Honorable Common Council.

In regard to the proposed contract between the city and the Wabash Railroad company, your committee on contracts and franchises desires to report as follows:

It must be realized that this contract cannot be considered independently of its bearing on other questions pertaining to track elevation, and your committee has taken pains to view the matter from all standpoints.

The serious obstacle to the completion of all of the work so far contemplated is the disagreement between the city and the Pennsylvania Railroad company concerning Clinton street, and, secondly, because the Wabash contract does not provide for the beginning of this work until January 1st, 1914, at a time, too, when this administration will have ended.

It is not our desire to embarrass either party, much less to injure either party, but to bring about a fair, just and amicable settlement of the entire question. The elimination of Clinton street at this time will bring about an immediate settlement of all disputes, and the extensive improvement planned by the Pennsylvania company will proceed at once, thus avoiding litigation and the possible loss of such improvement.

In view of the immediate advantages and benefits to be gained by the city and the public generally, as well also as by the railroad companies at this time by the elimination of Clinton street from the proposed contract, we heartily recommend that said street be eliminated. This is upon the express condition, however, that nothing shall be contained in the proposed contract that will in any manner embarrass the city at any time in the future from opening or establishing such streets as to the city may seem necessary.

This council has been petitioned both for and against the opening of Clinton street, by persons laboring under the belief that their property will be benefited thereby, and under the mistaken belief that the expense of the proposed improvement would be paid for by the corporation and not by the persons whose property would be benefited. The expense, of course, of establishing Clinton street at this time would necessarily be assessed against the property benefited, which would include all damage suffered by the Pennsylvania company.

Your committee is firm in the opinion that the suggested amendment is for the best interest and benefit of the city. We, in submitting this report, must, as your servants, take into consideration the fact that it is probable that at the next session of the general assembly the laws in respect to track elevation will be amended, so that the rights and powers of the cities will be clear and specifically defined.

In taking all of the different points into consideration, we feel that a settlement of all questions west of Calhoun street should be made at this time, so that the proposed improvements can go forward to a completion, having in mind, however, to in no wise bind the city for any length of time, whether it be for six months, nine months or a period of years, in taking such action as it may deem wise and advisable and just for the protection and benefit of the interest of the city east of Calhoun street.

After a careful and exhaustive consideration of all of the points and question, your committee recommends that the contract with the Wabash railroad be amended so as to exclude all reference to Clinton street, and when so amended that the contract be approved.

J. J. BAUER,
H. C. PFLEGER,
B. F. SARVER.

MINORITY REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON CONTRACTS AND FRANCHISES.

To the Common Council.

Your committee on contracts and franchises to whom was referred an ordinance approving a certain contract entered into between the city of Fort Wayne and the Wabash Railroad company, on August 4, 1911, and a contract of the same company and the city, dated September 18, 1911, beg leave to reports as follows:

That said ordinance approving the contract of August 4 was introduced in said council on August 8, 1911, and shortly after the matter was taken up as a committee of the whole and after going over the same an open meeting was arranged by said committee, at which time all of the contract was approved on condition that the board of public works would secure from the Wabash Railroad company certain other named concessions. Subsequently on September 18, 1911, the board of public works entered into a supplemental contract with the Wabash Railroad company, which contract contained the concessions asked for by the committee of the whole, which contract was presented to your body on the .... day of September, 1911. At the regular meeting of the council prior to said last named regular meeting the committee of the whole made its report on the contract of August 4, with the recommendation that the same be referred to the committee on contracts and franchises, to which body it was referred, as was also the supplemental contract, and they have been under consideration ever since.

Subsequently the committee on contracts and franchises had several meetings as a committee on said contracts. On Friday, Sept. 29, a meeting of all the members of the council was called by said committee on contracts and franchises, to which was invited the representatives of the Wabash and Pennsylvania railroads and the board of public works and other city officials. At this meeting the contract was gone over in a general way and an effort made to get the Pennsylvania and Wabash railroads together on the matter of a union depot, which resulted in no encouragement. In fact, it was stated that it was absolutely impossible.

The matter of the opening of Clinton street was also taken up, but as there was no contract with the Pennsylvania company before the committee it was difficult to consider their interest unless set out in the contracts referred to. As a matter of fact, Mr. Wardrop, superintendent of the Pennsylvania company, was asked the question, "Whether the approval and ratification of the contract with the Wabash Railroad company would have any serious effect on the Pennsylvania company," to which he replied that "any contract the city may have with the Wabash company would absolutely have no bearing on the Pennsylvania company," and further suggested that he knew of no reason whatever why the contract should not be ratified so far as the Pennsylvania company was concerned, and there were no other objections raised to the contracts at that time.

Since which time the undersigned committee has thoroughly considered both contracts and do at this time recommend that the ordinances approving the contract between the Wabash Railroad company, dated August 4, 1911, and the one dated September 18, 1911, do pass and the contracts therein approved in all things.

CHARLES W. DITTOE,

Whereas, Heretofore on the 4th day of August, 1911, the city of Fort Wayne, by and through its board of public works, entered into a contract and agreement with the Wabash Railroad company, a corporation, by Henry Miller, its vice president and general manager, as approved by M. S. Brown, its assistant attorney, which contract is as follows:

This agreement, made and entered into this 4th day of August, A. D. 1911, by and between the city of Fort Wayne, by and through its board of public works, hereinafter designated as the city, and the Wabash Railroad company, a corporation, operating a railroad through the city of Fort Wayne, hereinafter designated as the company, witnesseth, that:

First. That said city will, in the manner and at the time hereinafter provided, vacate parts of the following streets:

Grand street, from the west line of Harrison street west to its terminus or where it runs into the right of way of the company.

Second. It is further understood and agreed that in event the city should at any time, desire to adopt a resolution to carry Webster street across the right of way of either the Wabash Railroad company and the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, operated by the Pennsylvania Railroad company, or both, then in that event the city shall have the right, without condemnation, to continue and carry said street under the freight house and tracks, or any other improvements of said company, as the said freight house, tracks or other improvements may be built or constructed and located at the time said resolution is adopted, across that part of Webster street and Grand street to be vacated, as herein provided, without any cost to the city. Provided, however, that said city shall, if it carries said street under any of said improvements, pay the cost of constructing and maintaining all necessary walls, supports, or structures for carrying and protecting the freight house, tracks, or other improvements under which that part of said street is carried. Provided, further, that said opening at Webster street is not in any event to be carried through before January 1, 1915.

Third. It is further agreed that in consideration of the privileges herein granted to said company, that said company agrees that the city shall have the right to condemn, at once, two strips of ground thirty (30) feet wide, for street purposes, which, together with the twelve (12) foot alley immediately adjoining said strips on the south, is to be known in this contract and agreement, for the purpose of identification, as "Grand street re-located," described as follows: Commencing at a point where the west line of Harrison street intersects the northwest corner of the alley south of Grand street, thence west to the east line of Webster street, thence north thirty (30) feet, thence east to the west line of Harrison street, thence south thirty (30) feet to the place of beginning; also a strip of ground commencing at a point where the west line of Webster street intersects the northwest corner of the alley south of Grand street, thence west to the east line of Kansas street, thence north thirty (30) feet, thence east to the west line of Webster street, thence south thirty (30) feet to the place of beginning, all as shown by exhibit "A," which has heretofore been made a part of this contract.

Fourth. It is further provided, understood and agreed that the city shall have and is hereby granted the right and authority for the purpose of opening and extending Harrison street north for street purposes, from the north line of Grand street to the north right of way line of said company, to condemn, at once, a strip of ground sixty (60) feet wide, commencing at a point on the north line of the original Grand street three hundred and twelve (312) feet west of the original west line of Calhoun street, thence north to the north right of way line of said company, thence west on the north line of the Wabash Railroad company's right of way sixty (60) feet, thence south to the north line of the original Grand street, thence east on said north line of the original Grand street to the place of beginning, all as shown by a plan of the same which is hereto attached, marked exhibit "B," and made a part of this contract as fully as if copied herein at full length.

It is also further agreed that the city shall have, and is hereby granted, the right and authority, for the purpose of opening and extending Clinton street north, for street purposes from the south property line of the Wabash Railroad company, to the north right of way line of said company, to condemn, at once, a strip of ground sixty (60) feet wide, commencing at a point on the northeast corner of lot E, in Hamilton's fifth addition to the city of Fort Wayne, Indiana, thence north across the right of way of the company to a point on the north right of way line of said company three hundred and sixty-six and one-third (366 1-3) feet east of the original east line of Calhoun street, thence east sixty (60) feet, thence south parallel with the above described line across the right of way of said company to a point on the south right of way line of said company, thence west sixty (60) feet to the place of beginning, all as shown by a plan of the same which is hereto attached, marked exhibit "B," and made a part of this contract as fully as if copied herein at full length. Said strips being entirely located in Fort Wayne, Allen county, Indiana. And it is agreed by said company that the said strips of land, each sixty (60) feet in width, are hereby given and donated to said city to have and to hold, for said purposes.

Fifth. It is further agreed by said company that said city may adopt a resolution or resolutions for the condemnation of "Grand street relocated" and for the condemnation for the opening and extending of Harrison and Clinton streets, as aforesaid, at once, and that said company will waive any and all right that it might have to object to, and contest the adoption, confirmation or the carrying on to completion, of said resolution or resolutions, and that it will and does hereby waive and release any and all rights that it might have for damages because of said condemnations, or the taking of its property and also hereby waives any and all irregularities in said condemnation proceedings and its right to appeal from the same, and its right to question thereafter, the validity of said proceedings. Said company further agrees that it will not, at any time, after said condemnation proceedings are completed, contest, object or question the right of the city to use said strips so condemned for street purposes after the grades thereof are separated as hereinafter provided; and that it will and does hereby waive any right to contest said proceedings because the city has already adopted resolutions for the condemnation of the said strips for the opening of Harrison and Clinton streets, as aforesaid, with other property, or because said resolution may be modified by leaving out the strip at Clinton and Harrison streets, herein described.

Sixth. It is understood and agreed that the said city will immediately take such action, by resolution or otherwise, as may be required by the law or the ordinances of said city, for the vacation of the parts of streets as set forth in paragraph first hereof, and will also, at the earliest practical date, take such action as may be required by law, for the confirmation of said street vacations. And the city may at said time, or at any subsequent date, proceed to adopt resolutions for the condemnation of the strips of ground for street purposes, as aforesaid, and may proceed with said condemnation proceedings without objection on the part of said company. All rights of said company to object to such proceedings being hereby expressly waived.

Seventh. It is further understood and agreed by and between the parties hereto in consideration of the various things herein, that said city may, and is hereby given the right and authority at any time, to adopt resolutions or take any other action for the separation of the grades at Harrison street and Clinton street, and that whenever it does adopt resolutions to separate the grades and carry Harrison street and Clinton street, as opened and extended, under the tracks of said company, in accordance with the elevations shown on the blue print marked exhibit "C," and made a part hereof, that said company will not contest or litigate the right of said city to carry out the work of separating the grades, as provided in said resolution, and that it will, and does waive any and all right it may have to contest any such resolution or other action adopted by the city, conforming to said elevations shown on said exhibit "C," providing for the separation of the grades and the carrying of said Harrison and Clinton streets, as opened and extended, under the tracks and right of way of said company; but the city shall proceed in said matters as provided in paragraph eleventh hereof. The company agreeing to waive all the formal steps required by the track elevation statutes, in the way of giving notices, and the other formal steps so required, and does, in this contract, agree that all formal steps legally required, have been taken, and will enter into an agreement with said city as to plans and estimates for said work according to the conditions herein set out.

Eighth. It is further understood and agreed that said city shall not be required to depress the grade of either Harrison street or Clinton street where they are to pass under the tracks of said company below the grades shown on the plan marked exhibit "C," which is hereto attached and made a part hereof as much as if fully copied herein at full length. It being further agreed that said company shall have the right to use a depth of superstructure not to exceed four (4) feet from the base of the rail of the tracks of said company, to the clearance line of the proposed subway. It being further provided and understood that said extensions of the streets or subways under the tracks of said company at the points herein provided shall have a vertical clearance of not less than twelve and one-half (12 1-2) feet.

Ninth. It is further agreed that said resolutions or other actions, for the separation of the grades at said streets, may be adopted at any time, and for this and all other purposes it is agreed that said Harrison and Clinton streets opened and extended, as herein provided, shall be considered as now fully existing over the right of way and property of said company, as aforesaid. Provided, that the city shall not permit the public use of said strips of land across the right of way and tracks of the company respectively, until such time as the grades of Harrison street and Clinton street, respectively, are separated as herein provided; and provided, further, that the physical work of said separation of the grades shall not be commenced at Harrison street before January 1st, 1913, or at Clinton street before January 1st, 1914. In event the city fails, at any time to commence the work of the separation of the grades at the time adopted in any resolution, or other action hereafter adopted, as provided for herein, such failure will not in any way affect its right to provide for such separation of grades at some subsequent time under all the terms and conditions hereof.

Tenth. It is further understood and agreed, that the company will waive any right it has to contest the validity of track elevation resolution number three (3), providing for the separation of the grade of Fairfield avenue, where it crosses the main tracks of the said company, and that it will, at the time fixed by said city, agree upon plans and estimates, and will not thereafter in any way interfere with the carrying on of said work. Said company further agreeing that it will commence the actual work of driving piling and doing the other work at said crossing, under the aforesaid resolution, not later than April 1, 1912.

Eleventh. It is further agreed that the work of the separation of the grades at Harrison and Clinton streets, as opened and extended, as provided in resolutions, or other actions, which may be adopted by the city, as provided for herein, is to be done under the terms of the present track elevation law passed by the legislature of the state of Indiana in 1907, and amended by the same body in 1911 to apply to cities having a population of not less than sixty thousand (60,000) nor more than sixty-eight thousand (68,000); provided that said law, at the time said work is to be done, is still in force and still applies to said city, otherwise said work is to be done under any law that is then in existence and applicable.

Twelfth. It is further understood and agreed that the failure or delay of the city to secure and carry forth a condemnation for the extension of Harrison and Clinton streets, further north than the north right of way line of said company, or the failure or delay of the city to improve for use, or to use, any part of said Clinton street and Harrison street, as condemned across the right of way of said company, or further north, is not to abridge, bar, limit, or affect the future right of said city to improve and use said street, or any part thereof, as a public street, as provided for herein, nor shall such failure to condemn, or use any part thereof, be construed as an abandonment, nor be construed as creating a title by adverse possession, or presumptive grant in said company, and that the agreements, promises and obligations herein contained as to such separation of grades shall be continuing until such separation of grades and full extension of said streets is completed.

Thirteenth. It is further understood and agreed that in the event the said city fully performs the terms of this contract on its part to be performed, and said company shall fail to give the city the right and privilege to cross its right of way at Clinton and Harrison streets, or interferes with the securing of the right of way, or the carrying out of the work of the separation of the grades at said points in the manner as herein provided, or fails to proceed with its share of the work as herein contemplated and provided for, or fails to carry out any other of its covenants under this contract, and any such default on such company shall continue for a period of thirty (30) days after the giving by the city of a notice to said company of such defaults, specifying with reasonable clearness the nature of the particulars in which the said company is in default, then and in that event the said city may at its option thereafter proceed to have such work done and collect the cost for doing of the same from the said company, and may if it so elects proceed to condemn said parts of Webster street, Grand street, Kansas street and Hoagland avenue, herein vacated, and the said company hereby agrees to waive any right it may have to contest said right of said city to condemn, and also waives any claims it might have for damages therefor, notwithstanding, when the city exercises its said right to condemn, it may have a fill, tracks, buildings or other improvements over and on said parts of streets about to be reopened and condemned. In event said company has improvements or buildings thereon, it agrees to remove the same, at its expense, or if it should fail, then it agrees said city shall have the right to remove the same and collect the expense therefor from said company.

Fourteenth. It is further understood and agreed, that for the purpose of understanding and determining, at any time, the within descriptions and the points herein referred to, that the streets and alleys herein referred to shall be known at all times by the names and locations thy are now commonly designated and as they are named and described on the public records of the city and county, and as shown on exhibits "A" and "B," hereto attached. The said company further agrees that it will not, at any time, question the sufficiency of the considerations, on which this contract is based.

This contract is subject to the approval of the common council of said city, and shall be binding upon the parties hereto, their successors, lessees and assigns.

In witness whereof, the said parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the day and year first above written.

GENERAL ORDINANCE NO. 512.

An Ordinance approving a contract entered into between the City of Fort Wayne, by and through its Board of Public Works, and the Wabash Railroad Company, relative to the condemnation of a strip of land thirty feet wide from the west line of Kansas Street to the east line of Hoagland Avenue for the purpose of extending Grand Street relocated; relieving the City from vacating a certain part of Hoagland Avenue heretofore agreed to by the City and said Company, and to the separation of grades at Broadway.

Whereas, On the 18th day of September, 1911, a contract was entered into between the City of Fort Wayne, by and through its Board of Public Works, and the Wabash Railroad company relative to extending Grand street relocated and relieving the City from vacating a certain part of Hoagland Avenue and providing for the separation of the grades at Broadway, which contract is as follows:

Whereas, The City of Fort Wayne, by and through its Board of Public Works, did on the 4th day of August, 1911, enter into a certain contract with the Wabash Railroad company, as set out in the proceedings of the Common Council of said City at the meeting of said body held August 8th, 1911, and

Whereas, The City was authorized in said contract to condemn a certain thirty (30) foot strip of land belonging to said Company immediately adjoining the alley north of Melita street from the west line of Harrison street to the east line of Webster street-and from the west line of Webster street to the east line of Kansas street for the purpose of relocating Grand street as more fully and accurately described in said contract; and

Whereas, It is mutually desirable to both parties to carry said relocated Grand street further west, from the west line of Kansas street to the east line of Hoagland avenue so as to make said street continuous from Harrison street to Hoagland avenue, so as to make said street more desirable for the people doing business at the freight house of said Company that is to be erected along said relocated Grand street, and for other purposes; and

Whereas, In said contract it is provided that said City is to vacate a part of Hoagland avenue, from the north line of the alley north of Melita street, north to where said Avenue runs into the south right of way line of said Company, but if the same is so vacated, instead of commencing at a point thirty (30) feet north of said alley, north of Melita street, that the aforesaid outlet to Grand street relocated will be obstructed; and

Whereas, It is mutually desirable and advantageous to both parties to avoid the aforesaid obstruction and to vacate that part of Hoagland avenue by commencing at a point thirty (30) feet north of the north line of the aforesaid alley; and

Whereas, It is mutually desirable and advantageous to both parties to hereafter separate the grade of Broadway where said street is intersected and crossed by the tracks and right of way of said Company; and

Whereas, The Common Council of said City desired the Company to agree to do the certain things herein contained before it would approve the aforesaid contract of August 4th.

Now Therefore, It is understood and agreed by and between said City of Fort Wayne by and through its Board of Public Works, hereinafter known as the "City," and the Wabash Railroad company, hereinafter known as "Company," that the City is hereby authorized and given the right and power to condemn a strip of ground belonging to said company commencing at a point where the north line of the alley north of Melita street intersects with the west line of Kansas street; thence west along the north line of said alley to the east line of Hoagland avenue; thence north thirty (30) feet; thence east to the west line of Kansas street; thence south thirty (30) feet to the place of beginning and the company waives any right it may have to object or interfere with said proceedings and also waives and releases any right it may have for damages because of said condemnation.

Second. It is further understood that the City, so as to fully carry out its contract of August 4th, 1911, is hereby authorized to vacate a part of Hoagland avenue by commencing at a point thirty (30) feet north of the north line of the alley north of Melita street to where said Avenue runs into the right of way of said Company, and is released and relieved from commencing at the north line of the aforesaid alley as provided in the contract entered into by the parties hereto on the 4th day of August, 1911, and it is further agreed that the vacating of that part of Hoagland avenue as herein provided shall be considered as a full performance, of that part of the last named contract, relative to the vacation of a part of Hoagland avenue.

Third. It is further agreed that in consideration of the things set out in this and the aforesaid contract between the parties hereto, that the Company will waive any right it has to make formal objections to Track Elevation Resolution number Six (6) heretofore adopted by said City, so far as it provides for the separation of the grade of Broadway where said street is crossed by the tracks and right of way of said Company as more fully set out in said resolution. It is agreed that the said Company shall prepare the plans and estimates for said work, and after the same are agreed upon by the City, the work shall then proceed, and the Company will not thereafter interfere with the carrying on of said work. It is agreed, however, that the said work shall not, in any event, be commenced before January 1, 1914.

It is understood and agreed that this contract is in no wise to abridge or affect the contract of August 4, 1911, except as to relieving the City from vacating a certain part of Hoagland avenue as herein set out, but is to be supplemental to said contract for the purposes herein set out and for all other purposes. The said Company also agrees not to question the sufficiency of the consideration, on which this contract is based.

It is further agreed that this contract may be approved by the Common Council of said City, but the failure to do so, or the approving of the contract of August 4th, 1911, between said parties before the approval of this contract, or any other irregularities or omissions in the approval of either of said contracts shall in no way abridge or affect either of said contracts.

In Witness Whereof, The parties have hereunto set their hands and seals this 18th day of September, 1911.

A RAINBOW REVOLUTION

BY MRS WILSON WOODROW

IT was the straight gameness of Mrs. MacChesney which appealed to Willy Gaines and made him not only her conscientious legal adviser, but her staunch friend as well.

They were both pleasant people to look at as they sat talking on her porch, about a fortnight before the season at Wapiti opened. Willy was one of those tall, thin, rather awkward men, with a certain definite quality and distinction which most people found more attractive than mere good looks unaccompanied by agreeable characteristics.

As for Mrs. MacChesney, capability and efficiency were written all over her. She was in middle age, of an agreeable plumpness, with dark, quick, bright eyes, wavy gray hair and a placid, benevolent, motherly expression.

In further explanation of her present intentions, Mrs. MacChesney went on to say that she had decided to devote herself exclusively to the development of her new scheme.

"And that — ?" asked Gaines patiently.

"That," said Mrs. MacChesney, tapping the table gavel-wise with one gloved forefinger, "is this. We have before us a white summer. To explain," seeing his bewildered expression, "women, the world over, will wear little but white. It is the absolute decree of fashion. I have it from the best authorities. The costumes, whether linen, lawn, lace or embroidery, must be white, and white must be all the accessories, hats, shoes, stockings, parasols, gloves, even shopping bags."

"It's great, Mrs. MacChesney, simply great. I can't pick a flaw in it," said Gaines enthusiastically.

The result of his commendation and her conviction was that, by the time the season opened, the Snow-Flake Laundry was in admirable running order, and immediately began to do a flourishing business.

As the summer at Wapiti was fast approaching that imaginary zenith known as the height of the season, it was given an especial fillip of interest, a thrill of excitement, by the coming of Rose O'Hara, the great Irish-American soprano, who arrived with her French maid and English secretary to remain until September.

An entire suite had been reserved for her at the Ritz-Wapiti. It was the bridal, or royal, or something of that kind. The boudoir, hastily constructed of unseasoned planks, had rifts in the walls two or three inches wide. The bedrooms and bath were of sagging canvas. In the boudoir, one might apply one's eye to the cracks between the boards and view the panorama of family life next door. In sleeping chamber or bath one must perforce hear the most intimate of whispered conversations in the adjoining apartments. If one pined for seclusion in Wapiti, one must climb above timber line to get it.

But Rose O'Hara was an experienced traveler. From a rear window she could almost lay her cheek against a steep mountain, all rocks and scrub pine and sage bushes. How she loved it! She drew in the cool, dry, pure air in great inhalations. It was all magic and mystery.

Upon these ecstasies Ernestine presently impinged, consternation, even despair written all over hands, eyebrows, shoulders. God forgive her, but she had been ill in New York and had not wished to trouble Mademoiselle, so she had rashly, time had proved how rashly, asked Miss Hodgkins, the secretary, to attend to the packing of the trunks, and now, she herself had been unpacking, and to her horror, oh, what horror! she had discovered that there was not one thing fit for Mademoiselle to wear. She could accuse no one of spite, but that even an English secretary could have thrown beautiful gowns into trunks after such a fashion — "

"That will do," said Rose O'Hara peremptorily; and then, like all great generals, she issued her commands briefly and to the point: "Find out where the things may be most satisfactorily pressed and laundered. Give the people to whom you send them the least possible time to do them. I will take my meals here in my apartment until they are finished."

There was, naturally, but one place to send them — the Snow-Flake Laundry, and it maintained the high standard Mrs. MacChesney had set for it. Miss O'Hara's beautiful and innumerable white garments were promptly returned to her the next evening.

With the slightest of knocks, the maid burst into the boudoir. There Rose O'Hara reclined languidly upon a couch.

With British calm, Miss Hodgkins presented the paper bearing the letter-head, "Snow-Flake Laundry."

Miss O'Hara took it with indifference coupled with impatience. Then, as her eyes ran over the items and fell upon the total amount, they widened, her jaw dropped.

"Incredible!" she cried. "Impossible! This is some error. This is surely the bill from the jeweler's for my new emerald necklace. You, Miss Hodgkins, must be guilty of this absurd mistake."

Quietly but firmly, Miss Hodgkins repelled the insinuation. Again the singer ran over the items of the bill, and this time indignantly: "They think," she said bitterly, "that because I am an opera singer, and because my press agent and manager publish the exact amount of my salary trebled, they can impose upon me to any extent. But this," she struck the paper lightly with her fingers, "is too much."

"What shall we do?" asked Ernestine helplessly.

"Miss Hodgkins will pay it, of course," said her mistress shortly. "What else is there to do?"

"Sings," murmured Ernestine to Miss Hodgkins as they noiselessly withdrew, "will shortly happen."

They did. That evening, when the vulgar if decorated business of dining en masse was at its height at the Ritz-Wapiti, down the long, oak-paneled room, with its antlered deer-heads along the walls, the opera singer swept through an aisle of tables surrounded by men in evening clothes; and women in lace and embroidery and ethereal fabrics, all white, white as the driven snow.

Her dark hair was dressed after the latest Parisian fashion; her eyes, those famous eyes, looked serenely, indifferently over the assemblage; a little smile hovered about her generous, fascinating, slightly crooked mouth; but for once, the interest she aroused was due neither to her fame nor to her beauty. Rose O'Hara had eclipsed herself. To-night, it was the scabbard and not the sword which drew all eyes.

As she walked down that long room with all her trained and plastic grace, it was as if some belated ray from the sun, already declining behind the peaks, had fallen among them. But for once let honor be given where honor is due; this effect was owing not to the personality of Rose O'Hara, but to her gown. Soft, gold-hued chiffon fell limply over pale rose, the color of her lovely shoulders, and sparkling all over the low bodice were yellow and pink topazes. But this was apparently not enough of humming-bird brilliance, for fluttering from shoulder to waist was a cluster of great heliotrope orchids with deeply fringed, purple lips.

The head-waiter preceded her, haughty, imposing, yet withal deferentially courteous. Miss Hodgkins, in black silk, suffering an eruption of pink bows, and with the minor affliction of a white lace fichu, followed. As all were used to the public eye, their stately procedure was unmarred by self-consciousness.

The majordomo drew out the singer's chair with the elaborate grace of an eighteenth century courtier. She sank into it and opened her napkin; but the excitement all over the room did not subside, rather it increased — the whole place was full of a feminine stir and rustle, the soft clatter of lorgnons.

Those who knew each other and those who did not; those who happened to be introduced and those who resented even the possibility of such a thing, turned and gave each other the comprehensive stare of an outraged sisterhood, nor were open comments lacking. It was as informal and unifying as a fire or earthquake.

This blare of color, so loud, so indecent that it smote the sense was absurdly out of place. So spoke the uninitiated; but the initiated said nothing, only gasped and continued to sit in pale consternation before their untasted food. They read, as if it were scrawled in letters of fire across the gold and pink gown, the name of a great Paris house, and the head of that house had confidently assured them in the spring that this was to be a fluffy, fleecy-cloud summer; and here was Rose O'Hara in the most clinging of tabooed chiffons. No old gown unearthed from the bottom of a box either; that draping of the sleeves, those insets of lace about the foot, that ruffle cut in those peculiar points — these were the very latest midsummer touches. What did it — what could it mean?

At midnight, the consensus of expert feminine opinion inclined to the belief that it was a mere eccentric whim on the part of the singer, or perhaps her latest method of advertisement. But a further shock awaited them.

The next morning, after the porch watchers had comfortably settled themselves for the day, and were engrossed in the stimulating mental exercises of knitting, embroidery and gossip, Rose O'Hara, accompanied by Miss Hodgkins, who bore a rug and a drinking-cup, stepped out upon the porch. They took two or three turns up and down, running the rocking-chair gauntlet with a high serenity, and then made their way to the Springs. Miss O'Hara wore a short, crêpe frock, blue as the sky, and clinging as ivy, a blue hat with a scarlet bow, and she carried a scarlet parasol. Startlingly vulgar, the costume of a circus rider, proclaimed the uninitiated; but the initiated minority again kept an awed silence. For them, upon both hat and gown was written the name of one of the most famous Viennese designers.

Silently, one by one, the white frocks disappeared, and all manner of gay and gorgeous gowns began to make their appearance. Against its somber pines, its bare, pink mountains, about its gushing crystal springs, Wapiti began to glow like a bed of poppies. Such is the power of personality, especially when backed by the arbiters of fashion.

Miss O'Hara became the recipient of almost hysterically joyful telegrams from her press agent. From a news standpoint, she and her last eccentricity was a godsend. It was one of the deadest summers known in years.

Correspondents rushed to Wapiti. They hastened to announce that the color fashion had first been adopted by Rose O'Hara, but that Mrs. X—— and Mrs. Y——, names to conjure with, had speedily followed suit. Their papers and a waiting world immediately demanded an interview with the singer on this subject.

Miss O'Hara was gracious. She met all of the correspondents and talked pleasantly, but — not about clothes. She tried to beg off there. Really, there was nothing she had to say. She had, as usual, ordered her summer gowns from the best Paris, New York, London and Vienna houses. But this year, she must confess it, she had felt too weary personally to consult them. Her season had been an unusually arduous one, but they all knew her tastes perfectly, and would not dream of sending her anything but what was quite correct. Was it a white summer? Those things were of so little interest to the artist. But truly, there must be some mistake, the makers of her gowns would surely have informed her of this — what was it? — this white summer.

After this, as Ernestine had predicted, things did happen. A Russian Princess at Trouville, a French Duchesse at Marienbad, Valerie Dreme, the queen of musical comedy, had all appeared in the limpest of colored chiffons. It was practically a revolution; the most stupendous event which had ever occurred in the world of fashion. The great establishments made herculean efforts to assemble their workers, in the gallant but hopeless effort to fill their orders.

It was at this juncture that Willy Gaines came down from the higher altitudes, and Mrs. MacChesney heaved a great sigh of relief and hastened to lay her troubles before him. She wore the crispest, fluffiest white. It had become a marked costume in Wapiti now, by reason of its rarity and unpopularity; but with Mrs. MacChesney it was almost a uniform. The Guard dies, it never surrenders; yet her mouth had a strained expression, the sort of an expression she wore in the club federation meetings when the insurgents held the floor.

"Say, Willy," she asked, without preamble, "why wouldn't it be a good thing for the Snow-Flake Laundry to sue this opera singer?"

"What for?" Willy's tone expressed astonishment. "And what opera singer? Hasn't she — whoever she is — paid her bill?"

"Oh, I forgot," returned Mrs. MacChesney with a touch of impatience, "you've been gallivanting off into the mountains, when you were needed at home. Of course she's paid her bill. What for? Why — for ruining my business. I've got to pay all those women I engaged for eight weeks yet to come, and they're just sitting around doing crochet work and gossiping. The laundering of a little lingerie is not enough to keep them all busy."

In reply to Gaines's rather puzzled questions, Mrs. MacChesney went into the whole situation, explaining it at length, emphatically voicing her desire to secure some recompense for the disastrous results to her business.

"But she has a right to wear any kind of clothes she pleases," said Willy stupidly.

"Has she? Not if it ruins my business, and not if I can prove that she did it just to ruin my business," replied Mrs. MacChesney with compressed lips, "and I believe I can. The walls are thin, at the Ritz-Wapiti, and French maids will talk. You," with what to the masculine sense might seem subtle flattery, "can make a good case out of anything, Willy, and you ought to be able to get good damages for me out of this. Why, if it wasn't for the power of thought, I'd be a beggar in the street right now, for I mortgaged my whole melon crop to start the 'Snow-Flake.' Still, even with this trouble coming on me, I made a demonstration. I found out that prospect I bought last year, the 'Ruby G,' you know, was badly salted, and I sold it to a tenderfoot investor, the other day, for an advance of two thousand on what I paid for it. He is rich, and it will be a good Western experience for him, so you see that the widow is not left without her measure of meal and a little oil in her cruse."

With all her various activities and interests, Mrs. MacChesney had not neglected to adopt and adapt a popular philosophy. She called herself a "New Thoughtist."

"It does seem as if this Rose O'Hara was sent to be a thorn in my side, or so I would say if I was in the old theology," she continued.

At the mention of that name, a remarkable change came over Willy Gaines. He positively bounded from his chair, his eyes stared, his face went white.

"What?" he stammered. "Whom did you say?"

"Rose O'Hara. What a jumpy cat you are, Willy. You ought to take something for your nerves. It's cigarettes. Now, our crusade — "

Willy Gaines was ever quick to act. He took Mrs. MacChesney's hand, giving it a gentle and heartening pressure of sympathy and understanding, and before she knew it she was at the door.

"Now, dear lady," he said reassuringly, "I am going to arrange this matter at once for you, but I must have time to think, to consult the proper legal authorities. Give yourself no further uneasiness. Good morning."

Immediately the door closed on his client, he wrote a note which he hastened to despatch by a messenger to Miss O'Hara.

Within a short time he received a brief answer from Miss Hodgkins requesting him to take tea with Miss O'Hara that afternoon. But the formality of the social relationship between them, implied in the note, was not, as even Miss O'Hara found, so easy to maintain after having once admitted Willy Gaines to her presence. He not only loitered an unconscionable time over his tea, but insisted with a sad but obstinate humility on remaining to dinner and spending the evening with her.

After dinner, they sat on the singer's unstable balcony, watching the long twilight fade over the purple mountain into the dense, black velvet of night. But they saw not Wapiti, but Monte Carlo, nestling whitely under its hills, with its jeweled gardens, its blue bay and the cliffs of dark frowning Monaco. A few precious days in Fairyland, when she had been gracious and had let him see more or less of her. Then they had parted: she to fulfil an engagement in Vienna, and he to journey to Paris, and thence to New York.

"I've lived," said Gaines mournfully, "for three years on the memory of a few days. It's been starvation diet."

"I," said Rose contemplatively and irrelevantly, "have sung during that time in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago, in opera; and I have made several concert tours, which included Denver and San Francisco."

"I have heard you in all those places," said Gaines.

"Really?" she looked at him strangely. "And why — what possible reason could you have had — why did you not come to see me?"

"I went away every time exceeding sorrowful, for you had great possessions," said Willy.

"How silly you are," she said, and laughed and sighed.

And not that day, nor the next, nor the next, when they rode up and down the mountain roads through the wine-like August air, did Willy Gaines recall the fact that he was Mrs. MacChesney's lawyer, deputed to bring suit against Rose O'Hara for maliciously injuring his client's business.

"How beautiful the Bay looks to-day!"

"The Bay!" Rose repeated, perplexedly. "Do you still fancy that you are in Monte Carlo?"

"I have never left it," he affirmed. "I found Paradise there. Did you think that I was unsophisticated enough to let any angel with a flaming sword really drive me out? I just pretended to go; but really I am there with you all the time."

"But I am not there all the time," averred Rose; "personally, I prefer Wapiti."

And so illogical was her companion that, in spite of having a legal mind and being a leading lawyer, he looked pleased instead of distressed at this announcement.

"My stars!" he said suddenly, turning in his saddle, "I've got something more to do than to sit here talking to you and admiring you and making sonnets to your eyebrow, and touching the lute, as you might say, under your window."

"Indeed," said Miss O'Hara.

"Indeed, yes," said Willy. "I've got to sue you."

This time it was the lady who turned in her saddle, "Wha-a-t!" she cried.

"Do not take those high notes in this rare air," he warned, "you'll crack your voice, and then what will we do?"

"We?"

"Yes — we. If I have to give up my law practice and mining ventures, and travel about with you, I expect you to support me in the comfort to which I have accustomed myself."

She looked at him this time with a real apprehension. "Dear Willy," she said, "I hadn't realized before that you were ill."

"I'm not," he returned; "that is just my frank Western way of asking you to marry me. But, joking aside, I really have got to sue you, unless we can arrange a compromise."

Miss O'Hara turned her horse's head homeward. "Dear Willy," she said kindly, "you are raving crazy."

"Dear Rose," he assured her with equal promptitude, "I am nothing of the kind. You have, by setting the fashion for red, and yellow, and blue, and green garments in the middle of a white summer, ruined the business of the Snow-Flake Laundry, and Mrs. MacChesney, the proprietor, avers that you did so maliciously. As I am her lawyer and financial adviser, and nephew, and best friend, a sort of adopted son as it were, she desires me to bring you to justice."

Rose gasped, "Of all the impudence! I put on red and yellow and green and blue, if you choose to call it that, as a measure of self-preservation. If I had continued to wear white, I should now be living on spring water and pine cones, and sleeping on the bare hillsides. Just wait until we get home and I will have Miss Hodgkins show you that bill. Then you will see that it was really a holy war on my part."

"You appear to have flicked my client on the raw in one sore spot," said Willy.

Rose O'Hara gazed meditatively at the violet ranges. It was a long time before she spoke. "I am sorry if I have really injured her business," she said at last; "I never thought of that phase of it." Again she pondered the matter so deeply that she did not hear him when he spoke to her. "Suppose," she said finally, "that you ask this lady to take tea with me to-morrow afternoon, and then let us see if we cannot come to some satisfactory and amicable arrangement of this affair."

"Oh, nonsense!" said Gaines. "Don't you bother. I can settle this thing for you; there won't be any lawsuit. I was just trying to tease you."

She smiled at him very sweetly: "Nevertheless, I should like to meet her."

"Two is company; you know what three is," remarked Gaines gloomily.

"Please ask Mrs. MacChesney to take tea with us to-morrow afternoon." Miss O'Hara spoke with peremptory distinctness.

"You ought to be in the diplomatic service, Willy Gaines," said Mrs. MacChesney approvingly, when he delivered the singer's invitation. "I never saw the situation yet, that you could not manage."

Willy took the compliment brazenly and without demur, not even the flicker of a smile upon his impassive countenance.

"Of course I'll go," said his client. "I've had most experiences in life, but I've never yet met a great singer. Yes, I'll go, and," firmly, "I shall wear white, and although she has cost me dear in the 'Snow-Flake,' I harbor no resentment. You know, if we harbor resentment, we've got to pay for it, one way or another, and if I didn't train myself to love her, I might lose some more money."

"Think of 'training' one's self to love her," muttered Willy dazedly and under his breath.

For a time the conversation dealt with more or less conventional and current topics, and then Rose O'Hara very gracefully expressed her contrition for any injury Mrs. MacChesney's business might have suffered from a caprice on her part, and her earnest desire to make reparation.

Mrs. MacChesney suavely repelled the suggestion. She could truthfully say that her disappointment over the non-success of the Snow-Flake Laundry had been a means of spiritual growth. It had seemed hard at the time, but by persistently denying loss in her own consciousness, she had been enabled to realize greater abundance. For instance, she had told Willy of one successful deal she had put through only a day or two before, and this very morning she had sold by wire the whole side of Stony Mountain to an Easterner who was desirous of investing in good grazing land.

"What will he do with it?" asked Willy idly.

"When I dispose of a piece of property," said Mrs. MacChesney coldly, "I trust that I am too truly a lady and too truly a business woman to pry into a purchaser's reasons for wishing to acquire it." Then she turned to her hostess with her best United-Federation smile: "There is just one favor I am going to ask you, Miss O'Hara. That you will gratify my curiosity by telling me how it happened that you have a quantity of bright-colored costumes made in the latest style by the great dressmakers, right in the middle of the summer."

"Oh—that!" laughed Rose. "That has a very simple explanation, although I admit that it does seem puzzling. All of the people who make my clothes told me that, although this was to be strictly a white summer, there would be a complete change of fashion in the fall, and that all sorts of bright, trailing fabrics would be worn during the winter. Now, my next season is in Australia. I shall be there all winter, so that all my costumes have been designed and made up with that end in view. That is it. And now, Mrs. MacChesney," with that fascinating, slightly crooked smile of hers, "will you not ask me a real favor? I will wear white for the rest of the summer, if you say so."

"No, it is too late now," said the club woman, smiling, "but I will ask a favor, and that is, that we continue friends — real friends."

"With all my heart," said Rose sincerely.

"And now," Mrs. MacChesney spoke more briskly, "I think we owe something to Willy Gaines for arbitrating this matter."

Willy looked surprised. He had not considered himself an arbitrator in this matter, but he was quick enough to take a cue.

"I think you do owe me something, so I will ask you, Mrs. MacChesney, for a continuance of our time-tried friendship. And as for Miss O'Hara, she has just mentioned what she has to bestow."

"I!" cried Rose surprisedly. "What — ?"

"All your heart," said Willy Gaines.

THE DREAM OF THINGS THAT WERE

When we stated in this space yesterday that our architectural department clung to established ideals because they were safe in all ages and at all times, reference was made to the fleeting favor departures from these fixed rules enjoy. Architectural vagaries, like vagaries in dress, do not endure and that which is a fad today is a sorry joke tomorrow. Only that which serves the useful purpose holds fast. This point is probably more forcefully illustrated by recalling a few variations which time-servers inflicted upon architecture and which have passed, leaving their possessors to mourn. A few years ago some genius thought to break away from the established rules of architecture and "relieve the monotony" of graceful and simple lines by tacking rounded bow-windows on houses. Thousands of dwellings were defaced by them and continue to be to this good day, not being so easy to eliminate as was the cast-iron dog with the impossible wire basket in its mouth or those "Rogers groups" that adorned the front lawns about the period of the bow-window's popularity. The cupola, too, we must remember—the mark of distinguishment that was supposed to set off the real mansion and which exists today only as a monument to the folly of both the architect who stuck it on and the property owner who stood for the perpetration. And do you recall that fancy cornice work for whose uselessness the home builders of a few years ago were wont to sacrifice real comforts?—grotesque and ridiculous ornamentation that endures only to provoke the contemptuous smiles of the knowing and to provide shelter for English sparrows. And the false fire-place! and the lightning rods with gilt balls on 'em! and the cabinet mantel pieces! and the draughty reception halls that mangled interior arrangements down-stairs and that were never serviceable! Oh, it is a long list of atrocities that might be here recited. Yet each in its day was considered "quite the thing." That is why we maintain that we are right in clinging to that which has been approved by the centuries and in putting into our houses only those things that serve some useful function. That which tends to make a house artistic must also be employed to make it useful. That which is sacrificed to mere ornamentation is thrown away, and those who yield to the fads of today live to regret it. We do not wish our patrons to feel ten or fifteen years hence that we caught their fancy by the notion of an hour and unloaded on them something which must soon be as obsolete and out of date as those we have mentioned. It pays to adhere to established lines and this our architectural department does.

CIVILIZATION HAS PALLED ON HOWE

LOVE AFFAIR IN IT

Cleveland, Oct. 12.—Up in Charlevoix county, northern Michigan, there is a wind-swept hill upon the brow of which stands an old white frame farmhouse overlooking the lake. That's where C. W. Howe, son of Charles S. Howe, president of the Case School of Applied Science, is going to spend the next ten years of his life. Young Howe says he is sick of civilization as it is found in the cities and that he is going up in "God's country" to make good. Anyway, there's a girl in the case.

Howe, who is about twenty-seven years old, is said to have been engaged to a young woman in East Cleveland. The engagement had not been announced, but close friends knew that Jan. 15, 1911, had been named as the wedding day. Howe, who had studied engineering in the University of Maine, was given an appointment as an inspector in the city's department of buildings. He started out to make good.

Later, Howe stopped calling at the East Cleveland home. The tragedy in it is seen by friends, for they know the young woman is about to announce her engagement to another Cleveland man.

After Howe's engagement had been broken off he looked for some place where he might work and work hard. He heard of the farm and induced his father to help him purchase it.

"Yes," said Young Howe as he was packing up, "I was to have been married in January, but I'm going up there alone now. It may be a little lonesome, but there is lots of work to be done and I guess that I can forget. I intend to stay."

Virtue In Littleness.

Senator Penrose has a habit of punctuating his dissertations of politics with stories. One of his latest he attributes to Uncle Joe Cannon, who, the senator says, vouches that the story is true.

A member of congress ordered soft shell crabs, but when they were set on the table the member complained as to their size.

"Why, these are the smallest crabs I ever saw," he said to the negro waiter, "and they don't smell fresh."

"Yas-sah, yas-sah," said the waiter, only half apologetically, "I'se sorry, I is, but I done reckon if they'se not fresh, it's good dey is small."—Philadelphia Times.
